POLICE CURB SACCO CROWD STORMING UNDERTAKER SHOP

Storm Does Heavy Damage in N. E. Cities

MERRIMACK VALLEY'S LOSS HUGE; BUILDINGS AND STREETS FLOODED

The worst storm of the Summer swept over New England today, causing heavy damage to property and crops, delaying traffic on both land and sea, and sending rivers and streams to a near-flood stage.

Boston, Providence, Worcester, Springfield, Lowell, Lawrence and scores of other towns and cities took the brunt of the storm, while in Providence and in the Taunton and Merrimack river valleys it was especially severe.

Along the coast the downpour was preceded by a heavy blanket of fog, that delayed shipping of all kinds. Excursion boats were also held up. At the same time came warning of a northwest gale.

Lawrence, Lowell and other Merrimac valley towns and cities were hit hard by the heavy rain fall. Cellars were flooded and fire departments called up to aid property owners in saving their property. In Andover, a recently completed Boston & Maine Railroad bridge was undermined.

In Lawrence, a 50-foot storm wall collapsed and cellars were flooded. Crops throughout the valley were damaged.

In some instances roofs gave way beneath the weight of the water.

In Worcester torrents rushed into the business section and flooded cellars. A hotel skylight was broken and the lobby was turned into a pond. Unpaved streets were badly washed out in Springfield.

More than three inches of rain fell

2 HURT AT FOUR-ALARM SUDBURY ST. BLAZE

One fireman was saved from bleeding to death by the prompt action of his comrades, a district chief was overcome by smoke, and the Scollay square district was thrown into a turmoil early today when fire of unknown origin swept a five-story brick building at Nos. 112-114 Sudbury street, at Cambridge street.

Four alarms were sounded, bringing apparatus from in town stations, South Boston, East Boston, Roxbury, Dorchester and Charlestown. Damage was placed between $75,000 and $100,000. Hot air explosions endangered the firemen several times.

The heroism of two fire officers finally brought the flames under control when, alone, they fought their way, with hose-lines, into the upper floor after a Mansard roof had defied the attempts of a water-tower to reach part of the blaze.

HUB RESERVES CURB SACCO CROWDS

Police reserves were dispatched today to Hanover street to cope with a crowd of several hundred men, women and children who thronged outside the undertaking rooms of Joseph A. Lagone, on a false report that the bodies of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were there.

The lone officer on guard quickly sent in a call for help as the crowd stormed about him in steadily increasing numbers. The detail that responded to his call was soon afterward tripled in size.

The crush was so great that the undertaker's assistants had difficulty placing a casekt in a hearse which was standing at the curb. Most of the crowd thought thecasket contained the body of one of the executed radicals.

At the time, the bodies of Sacco and Vanzetti were at the rooms of a casket company in Merrimac street.

The unexpected early assemblage of sympathizers and curious persons about the Langone parlors gave the police an indication of what may be looked for tomorrow when the two bodies will be there.

There was another hurried dispatching of police when a crowd gathered about the entrance to the building at No. 256 Hanover street where the defense committee has its headquarters.

One of the members of the committe, Aldino Felicani, was in the doorway angrily declaiming against the refusal of the owners of that building and another to permit the

GIRL DEAD IN RIVER

The body of a well-dressed young woman, fully clothed and with a wedding ring on the third finger of the left hand, was taken from the middle of the Charles River near the temporary St. Mary's Street bridge today.

It was recovered by Metropolitan officers Moore and Bartlett from the Charles River Basin station, and apparently had been in the water several days.

The police saw no external evidence that crime had been committed, but Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath was expected to perform an autopsy and make a report within the next few days. The body was taken to the Northern Mortuary.

It was described as being that of a woman about 25 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches tall, 130 pounds in weight, with gray eyes and medium complexion, wearing a red dress, brown topcoat, flesh-colored stockings, light-colored, close-fitting hat and low black shoes.

On the finger with the wedding ring was another set with a red stone, believed to be a garnet.

The Metropolitan police are investigating to determine if the young woman came to her death by violence.

Princess to Fly Over Atlantic to Ottawa

London, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the Evening Star from Bristol says that it has been learned that a Princess will go as passenger with Captain Leslie Hamilton and Colonel F. F. Minchin on their projected transatlantic flight to Ottawa which is now scheduled to start tomorrow.

"This intrepid woman is the Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, herself almost a pioneer in aviation, for she made long distance flights before the war," the dispatch said.

For nearly 3,000 miles she will keep her lookout from a cane chair that has been fitted into the fuselage of the plane.

Princess Lowenstein, who is a sister of the Earl of Mexborough, usually flies under her maiden name, Lady Anne Savile. In 1897 she was married to Prince Ludwig Lowenstein-Wertheim, who, the Evening Star says, was killed in 1899 in the Philippines while fighting against American forces there.

HUB'S TAX RATE $30

Boston's tax rate for 1927 will be $30, a reduction of $1.80 from that of last year, and the first downward movement of the city's tax rate since 1920.

The reasons for the reduction, Mayor Nichols said, were reduced expenditures, increased revenues, and the smallest increase in valuation since 1921, amounting to $33,376,200.

The mayor pointed out that the last reduction was in 1899, when the tax rate was cut 50 cents from $13.60 to $13.10. He also declared that this year's reduction is the largest since 1885, when the tax rate was slashed from $17 to $12.50, or a reduction of $4.50.

The veto of 1928 school supplies bill which the mayor and two minority members of the School Board said did not belong in the 1927 budget, cut the rate more than ten cents, Mayor Nichols said.

He added that a saving of more than $400,000 a year has been realized in hiring teams and trucks from outside contractors, and in the purchase of motor equipment for the fire and public works departments.

The valuation of the city for 1927 as determined by the assessors, the Mayor announced, is $1,921,431,200, divided into $1,762,949,700 real estate and $158,584,500 personal property.

WILBUR WOULD DOUBLE U. S. NAVAL PROGRAM

Vallejo, Cal., Aug. 24 (A.P.).—Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur will ask Congress at its next session for a one hundred percent increase in the shipbuilding program, which now calls for eight 10,000 ton crusiers and several smaller craft.

He announced this plan at a conference here of municipal and navy officials after inspecting the Mare Island navy yard.

Failure of the Geneva arms parley should result in a strengthening of the American navy, the Secretary declared. It his suggestion is carried out, two $8,000,000 cruisers, instead of one, would be constructed at Mare Island.

1,000 HURT, 200 SEIZED IN PARIS SACCO RIOTS

Wild rioting in Paris that recalled scenes of the French Revolution, with estimates placing the injured at more than 1,000, including 100 policemen, marked the end of the first 24-hour period since the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

In other European centres pitched battles occurred between police and sympathizers. More than 200 persons were arrested in the rioting of 100,000 in Paris.

"Down with the Yankees," was the cry that rang through the French capital, even as the vanguard of the American Legion was arriving. The property damage is estimated at $500,000.

TWO FIREMEN BADLY INJURED IN SUDBURY STREET BLAZE

4 ALARMS; DAMAGE OF $75,000

of the fire, suffered a severed artery in the right arm when a piece of falling slate struck him. Other members of the same company dropped all other work and applied a tourniquet. He was then carried down a ladder and sent to the Haymarket Relief Hospital.

District Chief Avery Howard, first superior officer to reach the scene, was knocked out by smoke, but on being revived on the spot, refused to leave.

The blaze broke away from the firemen at one time and had eaten into the roof of the old Knickerbocker Hotel, next door, before Deputy Chief Alfred Caulfield and a squad of firemen checked it.

BUILDINGS THREATENED.

Waldron's Casino and the American House on Hanover street and the Royal Hotel, on the opposite side of Sudbury street, were directly in the path of flying embers, but the heavy rainstorm earlier in the night had soaked the roofs to such an extent that the sparks were extinguished as fast as they fell.

Fire officials said that, had there been no rain, many adjoining structures would have caught fire.

The building is occupied, on the first floor, by Coleman and Keating bottling company, on the second by the Sham Ricky Company, on the third by the J. E. Came Company, manufacturers of pool tables and bowling alleys, and on the fourth and fifth by the William Smith Salvaging Company.

The fire is thought to have started on the fourth floor and to have dropped down to the third and then extended to the roof. Although no fire reached lower than the third floor, tons of water poured into the upper part of the building will run up the loss by water by several thousand dollars, it was stated.

The fire was discovered by Patrolman Kearns of the Milk street station, who saw the reflection from the opposite side of Scollay square. He sounded the first alarm and District Chief Howard ordered the second, third and fourth within a few minutes of each other. This brought Deputy Chiefs Henry Power and Alfred Caulfield, Assistant Chief Henry Fox, Acting Chief of the Department, and Fire Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman.

SECOND FIRE.

As the flames were raging, a chimney fire was discovered in the American House, and Captain John Good of Engine 7, with a squad of men, was dispatched to handle it. No damage was done.

While scores of firemen were on ladders on the roof or inside the building, a terrific hot-air explosion echoed through the district and Chief Fox ordered the building vacated immediately. More explosions followed.

Tower No. 1, was then run into position in front of the building and its high-pressure "gun" went into action. The Mansard roof gave way in many places before the onslaught of the powerful stream but in both corners the flames raged within without interference, being out of reach of the "gun."

Two extension ladders, working on the corners of the building were brought into a perpendicular position and firemen attached hose lines to the upper rungs.

Captain Timothy Donovan of Ladder 17 and Lieutenant John Rowean of Engine 19 climbed to the tip of the two ladders. And then, in the face of terrific heat, both began to work the lines. Foot by foot the ladders were lifted until they reached the coping. Held in position by their life belts the two officers gradually beat back the flames and effected entry. In another few minutes they had the blaze under control.

FIGHT FLAMES FROM THE TOP

From the tops of these ladders firemen played streams on corners of the roof where flames were raging worst and gradually beat them back.

$1 Cash and Million in "Good Will" for Bombed Juror

Chicago, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—Incensed over the bombing of the home of Lewis McHardy, a juror in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, George Hiram, Port Huron, Mich., today endeavored to start a fund to rebuild the home by sending $1 to a local paper.

"I had hoped to see such a fund before this," he wrote. "Here's a dollar in money and a million dollars in good will for the fund."

The draft was mailed by the newspaper to Governor Fuller of Massachusetts.

FIGHT TODAY TO CONTROL DAIL

Dublin, Aug. 24 (A. P.)—The fate of the Cosgrave government was at stake in two bye-elections in Dublin city and county today. The result of the elections will not be known until Thursday, but it appears a general election cannot be long delayed.

If the government is beaten in both constituencies where the elections were necessary to fill vacancies caused by the recent assassination of Kevin O'Higgins and the death of Countess Markievicz, it will have a minority in the Dail Eireann. In that event, President Cosgrave has announced his intention of calling the Dail to decide what it will do, rather than wait until Oct. 11, the date fixed for reassembly.

RAISE FUND FOR MRS. SACCO'S 'CAMPAIGN'

Mrs. Rose Sacco, widow of Nicola Sacco, will "devote herself to the wishes and the principles he died for" and a fund will be raised for her, it was declared today by Mrs. Jessica Henderson of the Citizens' National Committee for Sacco and Vanzetti.

It was asserted also by Mrs. Henderson that Mrs. Sacco will "go anywhere we want her to, knowing her presence will be for the best good."

A campaign against capital punishment, a Senatorial investigation of the Department of Justice, an examination of the Justice files and formation of a national commission of "educators, publicists, attorneys and representatives of labor" to inquire into the decision of Gov. Fuller and the report of his advisory committee on the Sacco-Vanzetti case are moves that will be launched by her organization, Mrs. Henderson said.

MRS. HENDERSON WEEPS.

She was weeping when she returned to National Committee headquarters today after viewing the bodies of Sacco and Vanzetti, and she said:

"I did not recognize them. I could not recognize them. They looked so horrible. They were actually burned to death.

"We must get together and start a movement to abolish capital punishment, taking as our slogan, 'Sacco and Vanzetti shall be the last to burn to death.' We must concentrate our efforts on doing away with such brutality, but if capital punishment must continue let us do what we can to prevent the importation of an electrician to turn the switch.

"I saw Mrs. Sacco. She is still weak, of course, and dreadfully fatigued, but she will soon rally. It is remarkable the courage that little woman has and the unselfish and idealistic attitude she takes.

BELONGED TO WORLD.

"She told me that, although Nicola was her husband, she felt he belonged to the world. That is why she is allowing the Defense Committee to take charge of his burial.

"She will devote herself to his wishes and to the principles she knows he died for. She will go anywhere we want her to, knowing her presence will be for the best good."

Mrs. Henderson said that a conference of national committee members will be held in New York next Sunday and Monday to take up the matters of a fund for Mrs. Sacco and a memorial to the two executed men.

HOTEL FLOODED IN WORCESTER

Worcester, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—The most severe rain storm suffered here in many years did damage amounting to thousands of dollars today. The rain started in torrents about midnight, causing flooded streets and cellars in all sections of the city. Many of the business houses in the retail district were found to have several inches of water in cellars when they were opened and the day's trade was virtually ruined for most of them.

At one time water poured over the sidewalks in Main street from the hilly streets on the West side to a depth of six inches. Washouts on the hilly streets interrupted trolley service and in some of the low lands water was up to the axles of automobiles.

The skylight of the New Bay State Hotel collapsed under the weight of water on the roof garden and the flood poured down through the building to the office floor which was inundated to a depth of almost a foot.

Record Rainfall in New Bedford and Cape Sections

New Bedford, Aug. 24 (A. P.)—In less than six hours today an inch and a half of rainfall had been recorded on the city's official rain gauge, the heaviest downpour in several years, observers said.

Torrential rains put the state highway on Cape Cod under several inches of water in many places. Several washouts were reported in Wareham.

TERRIFIC STORM DUE IN HUB

In the Taunton and Nemasket river valleys. The Taunton river reached the highest mark on record and flood gates were ordered opened.

Between Brockton and Middleboro railroad tracks were covered by six inches of water.

At East Taunton the State road was covered with water a foot deep. Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway cars were put out of commission by the water reaching the motors, and some of the lines were blocked as a result.

Trains on the Cape Cod Division of the New Haven had a hard time making the lowland grades. New Bedford had an inch and a half of rain. Roads in that section of the State were badly washed out.

In Lawrence the roof of a six-tenement block on Melrose street gave way and allowed tons of water to run down into the homes. Firemen were called to protect the furnishings. Lynn and Winthrop, together with other North Shore towns and cities, had flooded streets and cellars.

Clear and cool weather is expected to follow the battering rain storm, the centre of the wave being over Iowa.

EX-COUNTESS SALM WITH FIANCE IN N. Y.

New York, Aug. 24 (I. N. S.).—Millicent Rogers, the former Countess Salm and $40,000,000 Standard Oil heiress, and her new fiance, Arturo Perlata Ramos, after arriving early today aboard the Olympic, were endeavoring in their suites at the Plaza to maintain a barricade against reporters and cameramen.

Though their engagement was formally announced by Millicent's father, Colonel H. H. Rogers, several days ago, they maintained a strict silence against the advance guard of reporters who went down the bay to meet them.

Near the pier, the reporters, still persisting, made a slight break in Miss Rogers' silence. To a question as to her engagement to Ramos she suddenly replied, "Oh, absolutely yes."

Dogged questioning about her wedding plans finally yielded the information that the ceremony would probably take place at the Plaza in October.

Ramos in reply to a queston about his honeymoon ventured to remark, "Oh, we'll just hop a cab and ride about a bit."

Miss Rogers has been in Europe for several months. She left America following her Paris divorce from Count Salm von Hoogstraten.

BERLIN'S FLAG CRISIS FAILS TO STIR WALKER

Berlin, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—The standard of Republican Germany will not fly over the Hotel Kaiserhof tomorrow night when the American Club entertains Mayor Walker of New York at dinner.

That was announced today when hotel keepers emerged from an all-night council at which an attempt had been made to reconcile the attitudes of the Kaiserhof management and Burgomaster Boese of Berlin.

The burgomaster had been invited to attend the dinner. He announced he would not attend unless the German national flag was flown from the Kaiserhof flagpole.

American Club officials, seeking to straighten out the situation, tried to persuade the Kaiserhof management to raise the flag.

Mayor Walker and party arrived here today. The flag crisis failed to disturb Walker, who said he fully appreciated the burgomaster's attitude and would not expect him to violate one of his own official decrees by attending the banquet at the Kaiserhof, one of several hotels under official ban for failure to display the Republican colors on Constitution Day.

At the Rathaus it was stated that "for political reasons," the burgomaster could not make a concession to the hotel men who "persistently and demonstratively flout the republic's flag."

The hotel men, on their part, have explained that members of their old clientele object to living under the same roof where the new colors are flown.

HOLD TWO PALS OF MAN FOUND DEAD IN AUTO

Charged with manslaughter, Dominic Giancaterino of School street, Waltham, and Corinda Cardone of School street, companions of Jimmie Di Nicolo, also of Waltham, who was found dead in an auto, were held in $10,000 bail each today when arraigned in Waltham District Court.

In connection with the holding of the two men, the police began a sweeping investigation of circumstances surrounding the death of Di Nicolo and pending the report of the medical examiner's autopsy on the body.

Giancaterino was in the machine with the dead man when it stopped in front of Waltham police headquarters. He was taken into custody and the body to an undertaker's shop. Upon questioning Giancaterino the police went to the home of Cardone and took him to headquarters.

They claimed Di Nicolo had been with them and all had been drinking.

On the street, Di Nicolo fell, striking his head against a post, according to their story.

In a taxi the two companions took their crumpled friend to the office of Dr. Irving Fraim, where Di Nicolo was pronounced dead. The doctor advised that they go to police headquarters.

Dominic went to the police, while Cardone went home.

Medical Examiner George L. West, in a preliminary examination, found a bruise on the back of Di Nicolo's head.

AGED MAN BEGS POLICE TO STOP HIM FROM SUICIDE

Worcester, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—Friendless and without employment, George A. Pearson, 76, confronted Patrolman Patrick Flynn at Main and Elm streets today brandishing a loaded revolver and begged the officer to take it away from him before he found courage to turn the weapon on himself.

After the patrolman had disarmed the man he took him to court where he was charged with carrying a gun without a permit. The case was continued. Pearson said he had employment in a restaurant until a few weeks ago when one morning he found a girl in his place. He bought a revolver and had since been trying to work up courage to kill himself.

Gas Pipe Bomb Scare Only a Bludgeon Used by Thief

A bomb scare on Milk street was narrowly averted today, when Traffic Officer McGroedy Logan, with what appeared to be a bomb in one hand, and Leonard Moore of Broadway, South Boston, in the other, was seen heading toward Station 2.

It developed the "bomb" was a section of gas pipe which the police say Moore attempted to use on two clerks in an Adams square store, when they caught him attempting to get away with five pairs of flannel trousers.

The clerks disarmed Moore and turned him over to Officer Logan, who marched him to the police station in the rain, the gas pipe prominently displayed in the policeman's hand. He was charged with larceny.

HEAR MILL PETITION FOR TAX ABATEMENT

Judge Sanderson in Supreme Court today took under advisement a petition of the Taber Mills of New Bedford against the board of assessors of that city for a mandamus writ to compel them to take action on its petition for abatement of a $51,000 personal property tax, which has been before it for more than six months. City Solicitor Benjamin Butler Barney declared the petition was unaccompanied by a list of the real estate of the petitioner as required by statute and therefore it was a non-existent thing the board was not required to take cognizance of.

KRESGE IN AUTO CRASH; SETTLES

A large machine driven by Kresge collided with an automobile driven by Miss Elizabeth Cook, of Plainfield. Miss Cook's car was overturned and completely wrecked. Kresge's car was badly damaged.

Miss Cook and the occupants of her car, including two adults and two children, were treated for cuts and bruises at Muhlenburg Hospital. Both drivers were arrested. Mr. Kresge was on his way from Canada to Easton, Pa.

JUNE MATHIS' PROPERTY HELD IN OTHER NAMES

Los Angeles, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—Legal entanglements may face the administrators of the $200,000 estate of June Mathis, scenario writer, because of her practice of holding property in names other than her own. SOME THINGS DEWART DID NOT SEE IN EUROPE

New York, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—What William T. Dewart, president of the Sun Publishing Company, "did not see" on his Summer tour of France, Germany, England and Scotland leads him to conclude that "there is still original thinking in the advice 'don't sell America short.'"

Mr. Dewart, in Europe since July 2, returned on the White Star liner Olympic.

"I can tell you more about my trip by" mentioning what I did not see than by detailing what I did see," he told newspaper men.

"I did not see anywhere as fine a street as Fifth avenue, nor as imposing a business building as any one of a dozen in New York.

"I did not see a theatre that was as fine, or a play that was as good as even the average on Broadway, and none approaching our best.

"I did not see an opera house that would compare with what I am told the Metropolitan directors plan for New York and I did not hear a voice that could compete with our favorite singers.

"I did not see a motor car that was as comfortable as American cars at anywhere near the American price, nor any cheap car that looked as good as our low-priced motors.

"I did not see as good a newspaper abroad as I can buy every day in New York, and as for the evidence of business enterprise as expressed in advertising, there is nothing in all Europe to compare with the commercial enterprise of the United States."

"I did not see as much evidence of prosperity in my entire visit as I would see in one day here, and if the immigration bars are ever let down the rush for this country from all over Europe will be overwhelming."

NORTON LOSES POLICY IN BOARD OF APPEAL

Cancellation of a policy issued to Major Henry L. Norton of Winthrop by the Globe Indemnity Company, under the State compensation insurance law, was today sustained by the State Board of Appeal.

It was alleged by the Globe Indemnity Company that Norton failed to tell of the prior cancellation or the accident when its policy was issued. It claimed that a check-up on Norton's record disclosed that he was convicted in 1923 on the charge of operating under the influence of liquor and that in 1924 he was involved in an accident from which two deaths resulted.

OLD GLORY NOW FACES DELAY BY GALE

Curtiss Field, N. Y., Aug. 24 (I.N.S.).—With a hurricane reported nearing New York, Pilots Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill faced another delay today in their flight to Rome and return in the monoplane Old Glory.

Chafing under the recurrence of adverse weather conditions the pilots discussed the feasibility of using charcoal burners to dry out the runway on the field in order to hasten the take-off.

Rains have softened the track, and it was feared that unless some artificial drying process could be devised, a postponement would be necessary even though favorable winds should rise.

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Mrs. Hendricks Whitman's Play, "Fool's Paradise," Has Most Successful Premiere at Stillington

GLOUCESTER, AUG. 23.—WISPS OF FOG, light as chiffon and soft as a cloudlet, swept in from the sea to wreathe Stillington Hall in mystic light as North Shore society arrived for the premiere of Mrs. Hendricks Whitman's play. The Stillington Players were doing her comedy as their second dramatic offering this season. Dainty ladies in dainty toogear tripped dryahod from motor to hall, through the cloister Leslie Buswell has had built to make Stillington entirely perfect. And tripping thus dryahod, dainty ladies blessed Mr. Buswell's artistic ingenuity and thoroughness in every way was the premiere a great success.

A CLEVER YOUNG MATRON HAS WRITTEN A clever play. And the Shore's swagger set came to sit in friendly criticism. Mrs. Whitman named her play "Fool's Paradise," add designated it a comedy. It had its tragic moments, however, but whether tragedy or comedy, it registered an instantaneous success with the smart audience that filled every nook and cranny of Stillington. Up in the tiny balcony Mrs. Whitman, handsome in white, and keyed to concert pitch (as is every playwright during a first performance) entertained a group of intimates.

THE AFOREMENTIONED WISPS OF FOG brought out for milady's benefit some gorgeous wraps. Mrs. Whitman's was an unspotted ermine with high collar. Mrs. Frederick J. Bradlee, Jr., wore a wrap of brocade in brightest cerise over a smart and simple frock of velvet. Mrs. Francis Bacon Lothrop swathed her slender height in a fringed frock beneath a very clever wrap, Oriental in both color and suggestion. It was an enormous square of rich silk, alternating stripes of dull silver and vermilion, worn in dashing fashion.

IN THE ENTIRE COMPANY THERE WAS NO handsomer or more beautifully costumed matron than Mrs. Frederick Silabee Whitwell. She and Mr. Whitwell were guests of Henry Sleeper for the premiere. Mrs. Whitwell's gown was of deep coral satin with swinging fringes of the same bright tone, and her hair, sleekly shorn, as is the mode, was bound with a tiny thread of gold. Mrs. Russell Sturgis Codman was in silver and black, and handsome as always. Mrs. Frederick J. Bradlee wore a stunning wrap of jade metal cloth over her moire frock. Mrs. Gerald Boardman wore a black frock and rose velvet wrap.

MRS. CHARLES BOYDEN WAS IN BLACK AND gold brocade. Mrs. Frederick Ayer's wrap was golden brown and her gown blue velvet. Mrs. Herbert Jacques was trim and effective in black and gold. Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Evans Dick, had some young people in their group. In fact Mrs. Dick has made it a point to include the younger generation in her Stillington evenings. Mrs. Dick was in black and silver, and Mrs. Tuckerman in blue. Miss Grace Monks wore blue velvet.

VERY BEAUTIFUL AND GORGEOUSLY colored was the heavy silken shawl Mrs. Augustus F. Goodwin wore for a wrap. It had deep fringe and some marvelous embroideries, a spray of enormous roses in brilliant coloring. Her daughter, Miss Betty Barrell, who is, I believe, to be presented this Winter, wore a frock of black velvet and a wrap of metal cloth in gilt and rose. Mrs. William Carrington, resplendent in black and a wrap that boasted every rainbow color, was in the Whitman party, that also included in its masculine number Frederick Prince, Jr.

IN TRUTH, IT WAS AN audience gorgeously arrayed and bejeweled, as for an evening at the opera, or for one of the smart supper dances of midwinter. There was Mrs. Theodore Frothingham's silver hat, set off with twinkling gems at throat and wrist, and Mrs. Harris Livermore's swinging eardrops of jade and diamonds to set off a gown and wrap of golden yellow. Mrs. William De Ford Beal's sleek locks were held by several rhinestone pins and a thread of diamonds about her throat gleamed in contrast to a gown of dull, soft black.

ALL THIS SMACKED OF midwinter's brilliance and made the midsummer evening doubly scintillant. Mrs. S. Hunnington Wolcott, and her daughter, Miss Edith Wolcott, were hostesses to a group. Mrs. William Davis Sohier, Jr., came in with one of the interesting parties. She was in black satin with a fringed wrap. Mrs. John A. Lowell Blake brought a group of guests.

Mrs. Blake was in metal cloth and its soft radiance together with the single strand of pearls at her throat fitted perfectly into the luxurious and softly lighted picture that is Stillington of an evening.

Drunken Autoists Now Facing Sanity Test In Chicago

Chicago, Aug. 24 (A. P.)—The time worn statute governing commission of persons for psychopathic examinations, recently discovered by the police as a weapon in their fight against known gangsters and gunmen, was aimed today at another class of trouble-makers — intoxicated motorists.

"As soon as they are brought in, they will be brought before me, and if I think there is the slightest chance they are crazy they will be carted right over to the psychopathic hospital," said William E. O'Connor, chief of detectives.

THREE HELD IN NAVY PAY FORGERY

While George C. McDonald, formerly of Boston, with Frank McMullen and Julia Frances Allen, twenty-two, Oklahoma City, were in police custody at Denver, Col., Federal officers were journeying after them from Portland, Me., and Montreal detectives were headed on the same mission from Montreal.

G. C. McDonald.

The trio were arrested after a chase of six weeks. The Portland Federal officers want them for forging navy pay checks and impersonating Federal officers, while Montreal wants them for the murder of Adelard Bouchard, taxi owner.

McDonald formerly lived in the South End and Charlestown. In Boston he was arrested in 1923 for larceny by means of checks and for automobile stealing. Subsequently he enlisted in the Coast Guard, deserted, was captured, but broke jail in Richmond County, New York.

The alleged Portland offenses were committed July 4.

The police of Montreal and the Canadian Royal Mounted have been seeking them since the body of Bouchard was found in a ditch on the Malone-Montreal highway, July 19, a bullet through his head.

TRAILED ACROSS COUNTRY.

The three, it is alleged, left Montreal in Bouchard's taxicab, and among Bouchard's possessions was found a card bearing the name of McDonald, while in the room McDonald abandoned in the Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal was a card bearing the name of the dead man.

It is charged that the two men, posing as Commander George C. McDonald and Lieutenant F. H. Burke of the U. S. Navy, and accompanied by the woman declaring herself to be Mrs. McDonald, according to charges, hired a suite at a fashionable Casco street apartment house, July 4, representing himself as a naval officer to the woman in charge. Later, it is alleged Lieutenant Burke called with an envelope marked "Boston Navy Yard" for McDonald.

CASHED TWO CHECKS.

The woman heard McDonald's alleged story that he was to establish a naval base in Portland, employing 5,000 men and sending a number of officers to the apartment house for accommodations. Therefore when she was told by the man, according to charges, that the envelope contained his pay check, she cashed the worthless paper for $130.

Later, it is alleged, the Portland hotel where Burke stayed, called the apartment housekeeper for references. She told of cashing the check, and McDonald talked to the hotel officials, giving a story which influenced them to cash a similar check for $150, it is charged.

Devoted Cat Dies of Broken Heart When Master Goes Away

Fred Rollins went on his vacation from Revere police headquarters Saturday. Matilda, the cat, died today. The mourning police say Matilda died of a broken heart when unable to find her pal of ten years.

Matilda was as fine a calico as you'd want to see. Her progeny numbered nearly 100. She was known for blocks around for her devotion to Rollins, department custodian.

After Rollins went away and Matilda could not find him she refused to eat. Today the sergeant found her dead in her bed of straw downstairs.

MORE SHIPS IN FLIERS' HUNT; FLARE SEEN

San Francisco, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—A woman and four men—seven days lost at sea—two more days of search.

Hope for the missing Dole race fliers, Miss Mildred Doran, John "Auggy" Pedlar, Lieut. W. E. Knope, Jack Frost and Gordon Scott, who left the Oakland Municipal Airport for Hawaii a week ago today, glimmered vainly on the seventh day of silence.

Chances were as faint for the recovery of Captain William Erwin and A. H. Eichwaldt, who flew out of the airport Friday in search of their missing companions and were believed to have crashed into the sea, after sending out a frantic SOS on their radio.

In the face of discouraging reports from the 42 submarines, destroyers, airplane carriers and their searching "eyes," ever flashing the colorless, laconic "all-still" periodically by radio, came word that fifteen additional destroyers and one light cruiser under command of Rear Admiral Luke McNamee, were ordered to join the search.

Rear Admiral Richard H. Jackson, commander of the Pacific fleet, ordered these boats into action with the idea of scrutinizing uncovered sea areas before falling of the "zero hour" Thursday.

The latest possible clew is a story that a green flare was seen to rise and die down about 3,000 feet up the rugged slopes of Mauna Kea, in the Island of Hawaii, Sunday night, but thus far has failed to result in definite word that any of the fliers has been found.

Three of the Army's De Haviland airplanes, which left Honolulu to fly over the mountain in the hope of finding a fallen plane, are expected to report the result of their search today.

Goebel and Davis Stand to Win $75,000; Start Home

Honolulu, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—Arthur Goebel, former stunt aviator, and Lieutenant M. V. Davis, pilot and navigator respectively of the monoplane Woolaroc, which won first prize in the Hawaiian aerial derby, turned toward the mainland today after a triumphal week in Hawaii.

Although their reception here has been most cordial, it lacked much of the spirit of gaiety that marked the festivities for Maitland, Hegenberger, Smith and Bronte, due to the sorrow occasioned by the disappearance of the planes Golden Eagle, the Miss Doran and the Dallas Spirit.

It is known the two fliers stand to win upwards of $75,000 as a result of their transpacific flight, which includes movie and other contracts.

Non-Stop Solo Flight Planned From Tacoma to Japan

Chicago, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—A proposed non-stop solo flight next June from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokio, Japan, a distance of 4400 miles, which would shatter all existing records if successful, was disclosed here today by Gerald J. Smith, aviator of Tacoma, Wash.

"The object of the flight," Smith said, "is to prove that it is safe and practical. It will be made in an amphibian biplane, motored with three engines."

SON, 21, SOUGHT FOR SLAYING MOTHER

Chicago, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—A charge of matricide today pursued 21-year-old Harry Hill around Chicago as plans went ahead in his home town of Streator, Ill., for the funeral of the mother he is accused of having slain.

Young Hill—"The Fish" they called him in Streator because of gambling and spendthrift habits for which his mother was said to have upbraided him—was known to have been in Chicago Monday night, spending the evening at a friend's home. From there the trail disappeared.

Dr. H. C. Hill, a well-to-do Streator oculist, was responsible for discovery of the body of the wife from whom he had been estranged for seven years.

HUSBAND STARTS SEARCH.

Learning that Mrs Hill had not been seen since August 4, he asked officers to accompany him to the home in which she and her son lived.

In the basement they came upon newly laid bricks. Digging, they came upon the body of the 55-year-old woman. It was clad only in under garments, and there were two bullet holes in the head. Mrs. Hill had been dead about three weeks.

On the back porch was found a pair of young Hill's shoes, and on them was dried mud, such as that in which Mrs. Hill's body was found.

BAD GAMBLING DEBTS.

As a motive for the slaying, officers pointed to several gambling obligations Hill had contracted. They said that since August 4 he had been living at a Streator hotel, explaining that his mother was away on vacation. A bank was said to have cashed several checks drawn by Hill against his mother's account, accepting his explanation of her absence.

Mrs. Hill lived a retired life following her separation from her husband, almost her sole interests being her church and temperance activities. Prosecuting officers were told mother and son recently had been in sharp disagreement over the youth's plan to marry a Streator girl, and also over his reputed gambling habits.

LIGHT 'MELON' FOR 63,000

Hartford, Ct., Aug. 24 (A.P.).—Sharing its prosperity with 63,000 customers, the Hartford Electric Light Company will give a 40 per cent. discount on October bills.

The board of directors has authorized the discount as a "customer dividend," the amount involved being about $200,000.

GOOD DANCING OR NONE, IS EDICT OF MASTERS

New York, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—By good dancing or none, the dancing masters of America in convention here hope to confound Puritans who would do away with dancing and the dispirator who would dance as badly as he pleases. They propose to distribute 20,000 booklets to show young folks what correct dancing is.

King Vidor Will Direct Next Davies Movie

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Marion Davies is as enthusiastic as I have ever seen her over Irving Thalberg promises that King Vidor is to direct her in "The Patsy."

The combination of this director, who made film history with "The Big Parade," and Marion Davies is a particularly happy one.

There is no one who knows better how to handle situations that call for real sentiment than Mr. Vidor. There are plenty such situations in "The Patsy," which is to be adapted from the play by Barry Connors. "The Patsy" is the younger sister who, in the vernacular of the day, is the "goat." She gets blamed for everything. Her older sister gets all the new clothes and the best of everything.

Agnes Christine Johnson, who did so well by Marion in "Beverly of Graustark," is working on the scenario of "The Patsy."

What could have been more fitting than to have an extra girl play the stellar role in "The Romance of a Bathing Girl?" Sally Eilers has been promoted from the ranks of the extra girls to play the lead in Mack Sennett's epic.

It's only right that some girl like Sally should have this part, for most of the Sennett bathing girls—Mabel Normand, Gloria Swanson, Phyllis Haver and Bebe Daniels—were not well known when they started their screen careers at the Sennett Studios, and they were all former bathing beauties.

Gloria Swanson's seven days in Catalina have lengthened into three weeks. Some of the exterior scenes in "Sadie Thompson" had to be retaken. Lois Wilson and Arlette Marchal have been spending the past week with Gloria, and all of them return this week, including the company and Raoul Walsh, the director. There are three weeks more of shooting before "Sadie" is completed.

Everything is ready for "The Blue Danube" but a leading man. Senna Owen had been given one of the featured roles, and with Lentrice Joy will furnish the feminine touch in the De Mille drama, to be directed by Paul Sloan.

Rex Beach just cannot stay away from the movies—the film companies won't let him. Universal is the latest to persuade him to part with some of his fiction. They have purchased "The Michigan Kid" and "The Mating Call."

There are lots of pretty girls in Hollywood. One of the most beautiful is Corliss Palmer, Mrs. Eugene Brewster. Colonel U. A. Ruston of the New Roosevelt Hotel has recognized Miss Palmer's claim in that direction by asking her to pose for a portrait for the mezzanine art gallery in the hotel.

MORE THAN 1,000 HURT IN FURIOUS SACCO RIOTS IN PARIS

HUNDREDS ARE ARRESTED IN CLASH WITH AUTHORITIES

centrated attack and a vicious encounter between Communists and police.

In view of the Paris disturbances, and disorders in other parts of the world, efforts of the Hub Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee to stage a great procession as a funeral contingent for the executed radicals will meet with stern opposition from Boston and Massachusetts authorities.

According to dispatches, Paris saw wild scenes as communists attempted to start a revolution in miniature on the Boulevard Sebastopol. Trees were uprooted and a barricade thrown across the street while members of the communist mob, estimated at 100,000 battled fiercely with the police.

French Radicals Call War on U. S. Legion

Paris, Aug. 24 (I.N.S.)—Order was restored here by the police early today after more than 1,000 persons, 100 of them policemen, had been injured in violent rioting by 100,000 Socialists, Communists and Anarchists in protest against the Sacco-Vanzetti executions at Boston.

No Americans were injured, although a number of night clubs in the Montmartre district frequented by Americans were raided by Communists.

Rioters battled fiercely with the police in the Boulevard Sebastopol where they tried to erect a barricade to hold back the gendarmerie.

The property damage throughout the city was estimated at $500,000, most of it in Champs Elysees and along the Boulevards Sebastopol and Strasbourg, and in the Montmartre district. This consisted of broken windows, pillaged shops and damaged automobiles.

WORST RIOT SINCE WAR.

Soldiers and police guarded the United States Embassy and the demonstrators were not allowed to approach within half a mile of the buildings.

It was the worst rioting Paris has known since the war. Between 200 and 250 persons were arrested.

Shouting "Down with the American cane," Anarchists and Communists broke into theatres and raided cafes, smashing furniture and crockery and driving out the patrons.

The entire Paris police force was on duty, for it had been advertised in advance that the radicals would make a violent demonstration in protest against the execution of the two Anarchists in Massachusetts.

A heavy guard was placed about both the United States Embassy and the consulate early in the day, and all persons desiring admission were scrutinized closely and ordered to explain their business.

In addition to the police on active duty, heavy forces of reserves were massed at strategic points with lorries to rush them to any spot where trouble broke out.

Two Berlin Editors Uphold Sacco Executions

Berlin, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—The Morgenpost editorially deprecates criticism of the United States for the Sacco-Vanzetti executions, comparing them with those by the Cheka in Russia and saying that organization executed scores of persons when the same doubt existed as in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, but "the world passed them by."

The Lokal Anzeiger upholds the American judges, saying they acted in the belief they were doing their duty. It cautions against intemperate language, "likely to have an unfavorable effect on Germany's foreign relations."

up one procession of 2,000 rioters who tried to march through President Wilson avenue towards the American Embassy building.

Another detachment of the mob marched through the Etoile section where the homes of many wealthy American residents are located, singing the "Internationale" and the "Red Flag."

In Rouen many persons were injured and six were arrested during a Sacco protest demonstration.

TO IGNORE U. S. LEGION.

Gathering opposition to participation by Frenchmen of radical tendencies in the American Legion convention here next month was indicated today.

The Mayor of Lille informed the Ministry of the Interior that his city would not participate in any friendly manifestations for the legion on September 12, when the legion stages its parade.

Deputies Cachin, Marty and Doriot, Communists, who are serving sentences in Sante prison for radical activities, have informed the president of the chamber that they intend to interpolate the government on "the impossibility of maintaining this September fête."

"Conturier," writing in the Communist organ, Humanite, declares: "We can be sure, at least, that on the occasion of the American Legion national holiday on September 19, Paris will not dance on the corpses of Sacco and Vanzetti."

London Troops Break Up Parade of Communists

London, Aug. 24 (I.N.S.).—Heavy forces of foot and mounted police remained on duty about the United States Embassy today following a riotous Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration last night when 50 men and women were injured.

Two thousand police broke up a Communist procession in Oxford street near Marble Arch, arresting several ringleaders. The clash followed a meeting of between 5,000 and 6,000 Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers in Hyde Park.

Police Charges, Streams of Water Hold Back Geneva Mob

Geneva, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—Police charges and streams of water were required to force back crowds of demonstrators who gathered to shout imprecations against the United States because of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

A large mob congregated before the American consulate, but as a guard of 200 policemen and detectives was thrown about the building, the manifestants could not get near it.

Similar precautions had been taken at the League of Nations property, where much damage was done by rioters Monday night.

Detectives picked up a number of men in connection with Monday's disturbances.

One motion picture theatre bore an illuminated sign last night, "Closed because of mourning." A big store raised a sign reading: "As a protest against American injustice, no American purchaser will be served here."

A considerable number of foreigners left Geneva hastily for other parts of Switzerland in apprehension of further Sacco-Vanzetti rioting.

neral on Sunday—and it is believed that hey will—the ashes of Sacco and Vanzetti, according to present them by."

The parade is planned to start at 1130 at North End Park, and to pass through the North End by way of Commercial and Hanover streets, and thence through the downtown district to the State House. Passing the Capitol, the procession, it is planned, will continue to the Charles street mall of the Common and disperse.

NIGHT NOT NEED PERMIT.

It is planned to have less than 200 persons in line in order to keep within the law which requires a parade permit where more than that number march.

It is not likely that anything out of the ordinary in connection with the funeral will be permitted.

The law requires burial or cremation within four days of death and, while Undertaker Langone asked permission of Dr. Francis X. Maloney, city health commissioner, to grant an extension of this time, the defense committee expected that he would be denied such permission.

Should the funeral be allowed on Sunday, the cortege would pass through the North End and down town section and then past the State House with the caskets borne by pall bearers until the capitol was passed. The caskets would then be placed in hearses and transported to Forest Hills Cemetery for cremation.

TO EVADE POLICE ESCORT.

Anxious to said having enticement of the caskets, those in charge said the number of automobiles would be limited to prevent the appearance of a parade.

They said they could not promise to be able to limit the number of "trailers" who might want to follow the procession.

Mrs. Rose Sacco and Miss Luigia Vanzetti will ride in the first automobile, and it is expected that, among others, the attorneys who waged the court fights to save Sacco and Vanzetti from the electric chair will attend. These are William G. Thompson, Arthur D. Hill, Herbert B. Ehrmann, Elias Field, Richard C. Evarts, Arthur Barthan, and M. A. Musmanno.

Hill and Evarts will arrive in Boston tomorrow after resting in Maine, following their last dramatic effort which was a plea to U. S. Supreme Court Justice Stone at Isle au Haut, Me.

POLICE ON ALERT.

The most unusual situation relating to a funeral Boston ever has experienced has developed. The police are doing their utmost to prevent any demonstration that would attract extraordinary attention and admittedly prefer that the funeral be on a week day.

Members of the defense committee were balked at every turn as they sought to procure a hall in which to exhibit the bodies.

It was the hope of committee members to get a place where men, women and children could form in line and stream past the caskets, viewing the bodies in a show of sympathy for the executed radicals.

If the funeral chapel is used the men will be surrounded in death by the religious appurtenances which in life they scorned.

A barricade barred sympathizers from taking the bodies to a building in Salem street, where they had hoped to place them on view. The owner of the building, which has two halls rented to Italian societies, forbade the use of her property for this purpose.

BODIES BARRED OUT.

A thick wooden joist barred them from use of the building in Hanover street, in which the committee headquarters are located, the owner placing the obstruction in the vestibule, so that the coffins could not be carried in in defiance of his wishes.

Mrs. Alice G. Twigg, owner of the building at No. 122 Salem street, sent her daughter with a policeman to notify the societies to which the halls are rented that the bodies could not be placed on view there.

Madeiros' body is at New Bedford and the funeral will be conducted there tomorrow.

The personal belongings of Sacco and Vanzetti were taken to Mrs. Sacco and Miss Luigia Vanzetti today from the prison by Attorney M A. Musmanno. These were in two thick bundles, wrapped in brown paper.

Musmanno opened Vanzetti's belongings at defense headquarters in order to remove the executed man's gift to him—two volumes of Beadle's "Rise of Civilization in America." An inscription in each volume read:

"With all my heart to my friend. Defender and brother, Michael Angelo Musmanno. August 11, 1927."

Everything else in both bundles was then taken by Musmanno to the house in South Russell street where Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti are staying. The latter told Musmanno her brother was very grateful to him and wanted him, should he ever go to Italy, to make the Vanzetti home his home.

Plaster busts of Sacco and Vanzetti are to be made and sent throughout the world, according to members of the defense committee, who are also considering raising a fund for a monument. The busts are to be made from a death mask which Antonio Salemmi of New York has been tentatively selected to make.

Mussolini's Brother Raps Sacco Terrorism

Rome, Aug. 24 (A.P.). — Rome's two morning papers, the Messaggero and the Popolo d'Italia, both devoted their front pages today exclusively to the Sacco-Vanzetti case. The Messaggero says:

"The Italian people, while not desiring to offend the noble and strong people of the United States in its legitimate susceptibility, sees the judicial organs of Massachusetts as bearing a stain fail a remove—sees as profoundly injured the right of justice to kill human beings in defense of society."

Arnaldo Mussolini, brother of the Premier, writing in the Popolo D'Italia, condemns the terrorist attempts at intimidation of the American authorities, but remarks that the protestors included important personages whose pleas were inspired by passionate desire for justice.

Named Medical Examiner

Governor Fuller today appointed Dr. Frederick R. Barnes of Fall River as medical examiner of the Third Bristol District to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Blanchette.

If Music Is Key to Then Try This on Your Fiance!

Chicago, Aug 24 (A.P.).—Music is the key to the hidden haunts of the human soul, Ambrose Wyrick, Chicago operatic and concert tenor, believes. In telling the Collegiate Club that music offers a means of testing character, Mr. Wyrick suggested the following experiment:

"If you're considering matrimony, give your prospective partner $10 to spend on music. If he comes back with 'Home, Sweet Home' among the pieces, then go ahead and marry; but if he spends the money on a lot of 'hot' noises, then it's a sure bet that the best thing to do is give him the air."

VANZETTI URGES SACCO'S SON TO HONOR HIS FATHER

A letter written by Bartolomeo Vanzetti to Dante Sacco, young son of Nicola Sacco, who paid the supreme penalty in the electric chair, has been given out by the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee.

To Dante Sacco, Vanzetti wrote:

My dear Dante:

I still hope and we will fight until the last moment, to rivendicate our right to live and to be free, but all the forces of the state and of the money and reaction are deadly against us because we are libertarians and anarchists.

I write little of this because you are now and yet too young to understand these things and other things of which I would like to reason with you.

But, if you do well, you will grow and understand your father's and my case and your father's and my principles for which we will soon be put to death.

DEFENDS FATHER.

I tell you now that all that I know of your father, he is not a criminal, but one of the best men I ever knew. Some day you will understand what I am about to tell you. That your father has sacrificed everything dear and sacred to a human heart and soul for his fate and in liberty and justice for all. That day you will be proud of your father, and if you come brave enough, you will take his place in the struggle between tyranny and liberty and you will vendicate his (our) names and blood.

If we have to die now, you shall know when you will be able to understand this tragedy in its fullest, how good and brave your mother has been with you, your father and I, during these eight years of struggle, sorrow, passion, anguish and agony.

URGES COURAGE.

Even from now you shall be good, brave with your mother, with Ines, and with Susie—have good Susie—and do all you can to console and help them.

You shall also like you to remember me as a comrade and friend of your fathers, your mother and Ines, Susie and you, and I assure you that neither I have been a criminal, that I have committed no robbery and no murder, but only fought modestly to abolish crime from among mankind and for the liberty of all.

Remember Dante, each one who will achieve the end of your father and I, is a liar, insulting innocent dead men who have been brave in their life. Remember and know also, Dante, that if your father and I would have been cowards and hypocrites and renegaders of our faith, we would not have been put to death.

They would not even have convicted a lebbrous dog; not even executed a deadly poisoned scorpion on such evidence as that they frame against us. They would have given a trial to a matricide and abitual felon on the evidence we presented for a new trial.

NOT CRIMINALS.

Remember, Dante, remember always these things: We are no criminals; they convicted us on a frame-up; they denied us a new trial; and if we will be executed after seven years, four months and 17 days of unspeakable tortures and wrongs, it is for what I have told you: because we were for the poor and against the exploitation and oppression of the man by the man.

The documents of our case, which and other ones will collect and preserve, will prove to you that your father, your mother, Ines, my family and I have sacrificed by and to a State Reason of the American Plutocratic reaction.

The day will come when you will understand the satrocious sense of the above written words, in all its fullness. Then you will honor us.

Now, Dante, be brave and good always I embrace you.

BARTOLOMEO VANZETTI.

P S. I left the copy of "An American Bible" to your mother now, for she will like to read it, and she will give it to you when you will be bigger and able to understand it. Keep it for remembrance; it will also testify to you how good and generous Mrs. Gertrude Winslow has been with us all. Goodbye Dante.

BARTOLOMEO.

1,000 Lose Jobs for Sacco Strike in New South Wales

London, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Sydney, New South Wales, reports that the railway commissioners have dismissed more than 1,000 workmen engaged in railway construction who ceased work yesterday to participate in a Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration.

The City Council is said to have ordered over 1,000 men employed in a power house for the same reason.

SWEDISH NEWSPAPERS PROTEST EXECUTIONS

Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—Although strike movements and demonstrations have ceased, the Swedish press commenting on the Sacco-Vanzetti executions, unanimously expresses disapproval.

"The United States, in recognition of her self-confidence, has defied a unanimous world's opinion," says the Dagens Nyheter.

Where's Emily?

by CAROLYN WELLS
Author of "The MYSTERY GIRL"

Story of a Girl Who Did Just What She Chose and Then Took Flight

Emily Duane is about to marry Rodney Sayre, conservative, and scion of an old New England family. Emily, parentless, is extremely wealthy, charming, high-spirited and impulsive. Hindu mysticism is her fad. She wills a large sum to Swami Lal Singh, her teacher.

Two days before the wedding Emily decides to have a rehearsal of the ceremony. Burton Lamb, best-man-to-be; Betty Bailey and Nell Harding, bridesmaids; Polly Pennington, matron of honor, and her husband, Jim; Pete Gibby, Betty Bailey's beau; Emily, Rodney and Emily's Aunt Judy are talking things over, and among the subjects is Emily's bequest. The will she announces is cancelled when she becomes Rodney's wife. The Swami overhears and is incensed.

Emily then gets a message that Mrs. Kitty Laurence, a dear friend, has become a mother, and she drops everything to go to the hospital. It develops that Polly Pennington has left with Emily. Jim Pennington waits for his wife, but gets nervous after a while and phone the hospital.

Neither Emily nor Polly has been there——

Police are called in to investigate the mystery and they find Polly Pennington at the bottom of a ravine nearby—dead.

Benefit Dancer

TO AID CHILDREN

Dana Sieveling will dance at the musicale and flower show given under auspices of a group of North Shore society matrons at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, Saturday for the benefit of the Children's Hospital.

CHAPTER XV.

RODNEY rose, walked over to Nell, and took possession of the fur necklace.

"Then how did it get down there, under Polly's body?" he asked.

Going on he argued: "Emily has been carried away by force, abducted, and held for ransom. At least, I can see no other theories. Had she been attacked because of her necklace, the thief would have secured that and fled. If I am right, we will soon get letters demanding money, and in the meantime they will not harm her. That's cold comfort, but it's better than a good many other thoughts. However, it's all assumption or theory, there's no proof of any of it. But this fur business puts another face on it. It makes it mysterious, and mystery calls for a skilled detective."

"As to that fur——" and Pete gazed meditatively at the sable, "I can't see——"

"Of course you can't," Rod told him. "Not one of us can have a glimmer of an idea how Emily's necklace came to be down there under Polly's body. So there's not the least use speculating about it."

"No harm talking it over," said Lamb, as he watched Sayre holding fast to the bit of fur, and unconsciously caressing it, as if it were Emily herself.

Like Rodney, Burton Lamb said little, when he had no real opinions to advance. He had been thinking deeply for the last few moments about this fur piece, and he desired to talk about it.

"It may be easily explained," he began. "Say, Emily left the house with it on, which we know she did. Say, she met Polly, and asked Polly to go to the hospital with her. Say, Polly wouldn't—and we all know Polly was as likely to turn one way as the other in that matter, about going to see a baby, I mean."

"Yes," Betty agreed. "sometimes she loves to see any passing child.

'Kidnap' Woman in Cash Fight

3 HELD IN ROW OVER FORTUNE

Aged Aunt Who Signs Away Bankbook Says She Knows What She Is Doing

Albany, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—A family tangle over a bankbook and furniture belonging to Mrs. Abbie Tucker of Rutland, Vt., aged 87, and a charge of kidnaping the aged woman brought against her niece, Mrs. Mary Deboure of Hampton, Ia., was being straightened out by Albany police today.

Mrs. Deboure was arrested when she arrived here with her aunt. This action followed receipt of a telegram from the Rutland police, who advised that they were holding John Deboure, the niece's husband, and his brother-in-law, Charles Jones, on charges of kidnaping and intent to extort money.

Albany police said the abduction charges resulted from the desire of two families, one in Vermont and the other in Iowa, to harbor Mrs. Tucker, who is said to have $5,500 on deposit in a Rutland bank.

Mrs. Tucker emphatically declared she wanted to go to Iowa with her niece. "I signed over my bankbook and wrote out the Rutland checks that were mine in the house where I lived," she said. "I know what I am doing, and anyone who doesn't think so had better not try to force me."

Malden Fire Whistle Refuses to "Toot" on Week-Ends

The only thing they can do in Malden is put a ban on second alarm fires over week-ends and holidays. The second alarm whistle wont tootle during such periods any more, it was decided today.

The Malden fire whistle is stop the Boston Rubber Shoe Company Factory, whose plant supplies the steam.

Today the company notified the fire department that over week-ends and holidays it will have only a little steam, not enough to produce even a gurgle. So the fire department will have the firemen install telephones in their homes.

ROOSEVELT'S WIDOW TO OPERATE HOSTELRY

Providence, R. I., Aug. 24 (A.P.).—The historic General Putnam Inn at Brooklyn, Ct., has been purchased by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, who will operate it as a hostelry. The property, known as Mortlake Manor, was deeded by Mortimer Marlar to Miss Marion G. Thompson, who will be associated with Mrs. Roosevelt in the venture, and the latter in turn deeded it to the late President's widow.

HEARING ON $1,000,000 STREET

Boston & Maine to Sell Land to the City at Half Price for Widening Project

No opposition developed today at the hearing before the Board of Street Commissioners at City Hall on the $1,000,000 project of widening Nashua street, West End, to connect with the Northern Artery, and which was authorized at the last session of the Legislature.

At the time the project came before the Legislature the Boston & Maine Railroad, which owns most of the land that will be taken in the widening plan, offered it to the city at half-price.

Martin Lomasney appeared at the hearing and favored the idea, saying the city was not only obtaining a bargain in land, but that the new highway would bring more business into Boston.

Others who were present and favored the project were: Henry I Harriman, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission; Alton C. Briggs, president of the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange; Bernard Wiseman, representing the Boston Chamber of Commerce; Luke J. Mullen of Charlestown and City Councillor John A. Taylor.

A peculiar feature of the hearing was that no representatives of the Boston & Maine Railroad was present.

"Miss Doran," in Nose Dive, Vanished in Sea, Says Seer

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 24 (I.N.S.).—Zandra, famous psychic, in response to a telegram from Mildred Doran's father, replied as to the fate of the missing Flint, Mich., school teacher and her companions, Auggy Pedlar and Vilas Knowe:

"The 'Miss Doran' took a nose dive near the Triple of Cancer, 110 west longitude and with her three passengers went down almost immediately about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning."

Speaking of it later Zandra, who was born in India, said:

"This is not guess work. I do not know how I get it, but I know it is true. I see but mostly I feel."

SEA QUAKE HURLS LINER PASSENGERS FROM BEDS

New York, Aug. 24 (I.N.S.).—A strange convulsion at sea—generally believed to be submarine earthquake of marked intensity—tilted the French liner France from side to side and hurled hundreds of passengers from their chairs and beds, it was learned when the ship docked today.

FIREMEN FORGET PUMPS AND AXES; TOWN BURNS

Constantinople, Aug. 24 (A. P.).—A huge fire in Scutari, the Asiatic suburb of Constantinople, famous in Byzantine history as Chalcedon, "the city of the blind," has destroyed the most picturesque and most Turkish district on the shores of the Bosphorus.

The fire, which started last night, destroyed about 400 old wooden latticed houses and drove 2,000 refugees to the famous Scutari cemetery. The refugees were supplied bread and water at the order of President Mustapha Kemal, who watched the fire from the Dolma Bastche Palace on the opposite shore.

New Turkey's modern fire engines could not combat with a high northerly wind fanning the tinderlike houses. The fire chief and his aids lost their heads and rushed into the thick of the flames only to be incapacitated and sent to a hospital, leaving the firemen without directors.

A hurry call brought the Constantinople fire force across the Bosphorus, but there was so much excitement that they forgot to take their hatchets and pumps. Finally military caterpillar tractors were ordered out to roll out and smother the flames.

The loss was estimated at $1,000,000 liras.

The origin of the fire was attributed to an old woman trying to burn out woodbugs from the lattices in the windows of her shack.

WOLL ATTACKS REDS IN U. S.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 24 (A.P.).—A bitter attack against Communism and its propaganda in this country was made by Matthew Woll, New York, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address at the annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor here today.

In assailing Red propaganda as a menace to the foundations of American labor, Woll urged trade union ists to form themselves "into constructive 'rights'

SIX MONTHS FOR MAIL BOX THEFT

For larceny of letters from apartment house boxes in Allston, sentences of six months each in the House of Correction were given to Elmer J. Babb, Warren street, Allston, and Irving S. The trio were arrested on Commonwealth avenue following numerous complaints of loss of mail.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized by Mr. Edison.)

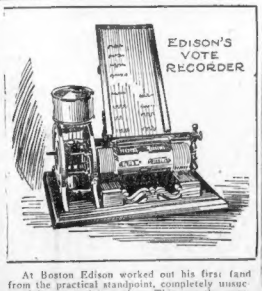
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

Following another period of wandering, Edison returned to Port Huron to visit his folks. There his old friend, "Mill" Adams, wrote that a job was awaiting him in Boston. Near Toronto the train was snowed in and the weary passengers had to make their way on snowshoes over the heavy drifts to a nearby inn.

Few, if any, more bitter experiences have come to the great benefactor than the four days and nights it took him to reach Boston. A less courageous soul would hardly have survived the intense hunger and bitter cold. Edison's modest arrival in Boston closely parallels Franklin's landing years before in Philadelphia.

Cosmopolitan rights reserved

Five minutes after entering the Western Union Telegraph office Edison landed the job he was after. Once he was on his feet again, he rigged up a workshop for experimenting. One day he spilled acid on a thirty-dollar suit. He dryly commented, "That's what I get for putting so much money in a new suit."



At Boston Edison worked out his first fund from the practical standpoint, completely unsuccessful) patented invention. This was the vote recorder, whereby each member of a legislative body could register his name under the "ayes" or "noes" by means of a switch on his desk.

COOLIDGE GOES OVER DIVIDE FOR FISH

Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., Aug. 24 (I.N.S.).—Crossing and recrossing the continental divide, President Coolidge went his way eastward across Yellowstone National Park today in quest of new thrills of the sport of angling.

His destination was Yellowstone Lake, where lurk cut-throat trout, a species new to the President and which promises to tax his skill as a fisherman.

Mores cenic thrills, of which the park holds an overabundance, engage Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and son John en route.

First was the initial crossing of the continental divide at Carle, where the road sits 8,261 feet above sea level.

AGAIN OVER THE DIVIDE.

Here is located Isa Lake, where waters in springtime flow both into the Atlantic and Pacific.

Then came the second passage, where the great watershed of the Continent runs back across the road in a huge semi-circle.

From the stupendous solitude of 8,944 feet, the presidential party was enabled to gaze out on a horizon to rear the park mountain lines and embracing Shoshone Lake near Cody, Wyo.

Coming also as a diversion was an encounter with Jesse James, famous Yellowstone trail bear who parks himself in the middle of the roads and "holds up" passing autos for candy or other sweets. Forest rangers with the party paid the ransom.

AT THE FISHING CONE.

At West Thumb, first point reached on the huge lake, which has an area of about 140 miles, Mr. Coolidge came upon another of nature's freaks, "the Fishing Cone." The lake lays against one side of the road and the other is a big natural cauldron filled with boiling water, until Federal restriction interfered, visitors used to be entertained by the spectacle of seeing a fish caught in the lake and, while still on the hook, whipped across the road into the cone and boiled.

Upon arrival at the Lake Hotel, where the Coolidges will remain for the night, it was planned to take the executive immediately to Peal Island, where he may fish in seclusion.

BYRD TO PILOT MINISTER TO TORONTO

New York, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—The French Minister of Aviation, Maurice Bokanowski, official host to Commander Richard E. Byrd in France, arrived on the liner France today. While Commander Byrd the minister expects to go by airplane to Toronto this afternoon.

M. Bokonowski, who is French Minister of Commerce, Industry and Post, as well as head of civil aviation, was welcomed to quarantine by Commander Byrd, Captain Rene Fonck and the Mayor's committee.

The minister was kept at his post in Paris until a few minutes before the train departed for the boat by the formalities of signing the Franco-German commercial treaty. He left greatly perturbed for fear he would not arrive in time to reach Toronto for the opening of the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association today, and also for fear he might be delaped at Ellis Island, as he had no time to get an American visa on his passport.

The French minister said of the American Legion convention in Paris that it was "absurd" to fear it would be marred by further Sacco-Vanzetti disorders. The French people will be so glad to have them with them again the men whom they regard as their saviors that nothing will be permitted to interfere with their welcome, he added.

W. C. T. U. HITS GROCERS WHO AID HOME BREWERS

Chicago, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—Grocers who sell ingredients used in home brewing of beer have aroused the ire of the National W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Ella Boole national president of the Union, announced, as she stopped off here yesterday en route to the convention in Minneapolis, that the W. C. T. U. likely would recommend that housekeepers patronize only those merchants who refuse to cater to "that thoughtless group who flout the Constitution by the domestic manufacture of illegal brew."

JOBLESS FIGHT SPECTRE OF DEPENDENT OLD AGE

New York, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—On behalf of some 200 middle aged men and women, a permanent organization today began a campaign against the spectre of dependent old age.

The organization came into being at a meeting at the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. of jobless men and women in their forties who affirmed that New York employers not only agree with Dr. Osler's celebrated declaration that a man is as good as dead at sixty and should be chloroformed, but went one better and placed the age at forty.

The jobless complained that this young man's city has closed its doors in their faces. How to open them and accomplish their objective was not disclosed.

The chairman, said to be a successful man of business, is interested in the problem.

Some blame their troubles on the government, some on cruel capitalism, others on employment agency systems, though one or two said the fault was to be found in the inability of men and women in their forties to adapt themselves to new work.

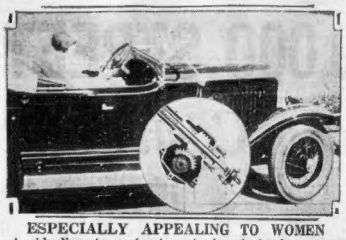
LA SALLE EASY TO STEER



ESPECIALLY APPEALING TO WOMEN

A wide-diameter racing-type steering wheel and a narrow-gauge rim makes it especially easy for women to operate the La Salle models. Thrust of the worm and sector type gear is taken on ball bearings, as shown in the circle inset.

LA SALLES IN NEW RECORDS

Inquiries for LaSalle roadsters and phaetons with high-compression heads and high gear ratios have sprung up as an immediate result of the recent test at the General Motors Proving Ground in which a stripped roadster similarly equipped made a 951-mile run at a speed of 95 miles per hour, it was announced today.

The high speed which has been developed in the LaSalle, officials of the company indicate, was not an end in itself, but was developed as a by-product in an effort to obtain the highest type of performance.

The roadster which passed the proving ground test at a rate of sustained speed which threw to the discard performances of previous years was the same one which paced the Indianapolis races.

While it has been piling up 12,000 miles of test work at top speed, eleven other La Salles, which have been under test at the proving ground since January 14, have stacked up mileages varying from 16,000 to 49,000 each; and a total of nearly one-half million La Salle miles has been run under tests there.

WHIPPET MAKERS TO STAND PAT ON DESIGN

A statement issued today by Willys-Overland, Inc., and recently by Herbert Fitch, general manager for New England, says that no changes are being anticipated in Whippet design or construction.

New design introduced into the light car market by the Whippet, the statement says, includes four-wheel brakes, low riding bodies, higher compression ratio in the motor, higher rate of piston travel and greater power development from the dimensions of the motor than have hitherto been obtained in the low-priced plants used in light cars built as standard production.

It is cited by Willys-Overland that the most recent announcement in the four cylinder field dwells upon increased power development, lower distribution of weight and greater compactness in body dimensions without decrease in the amount of usable room in the bodies.

It is generally anticipated by motor car authorities that the next light car production will show power developments similar to those which were established in the Whippet motor which today develops greater horsepower per cubic inch of piston displacement than any other light car power plant.

FRANKLIN CAR CLIMBS MOUNTAIN IN WALES

Climbing 1,605 feet in a distance of approximately one mile and a quarter, or a gradient of one foot climb to every four feet of travel, a Franklin stock demonstrator from the showroom of The Franklin Motor Company, Ltd., of London negotiated the famous Bwich-y-Groes hill near Dinas Mawddy, Wales, on July 5, and at the end of the run, the official observer placed his hands on the cylinder fins and found them cool enough to touch.

H. Edwin Plaister, former racing driver and now manager of the English distributorship, piloted the car.

Samuel Davies, representing the "Autocar," one of England's leading motoring journals, and winner in the recent 24-hour Grand Prix endurance run at Le Mans, France, acted as observer, expressing surprise at the engine's cooling performance. "It is almost unbelievable," Davies exclaimed, when the summit was reached and he found he could place his fingers on the cylinder fins without burning them.

Standard British gasoline was used for the test and the car was driven from London to the top hill, a distance of 204 miles, beginning the ascent without any adjustment or further preparation.

WILL GIVE BENEFIT PERFORMANCE FOR BLIND

A special performance of George M. Cohan's "The Baby Cyclone" will be given at the Hollis Street Theatre next Friday afternoon, for the benefit of the blind.

Grant Mitchell, the leading member of the cast, has secured the consent of Mr. Cohan, and the rest of the company are eager to lend their services. A committee has been formed to distribute invitations. The performance is not open to the public.

FAULTY BRAKES INJURE TIRES

Educational campaigns conducted by the various tire manufacturers through their advertising and dealer organizations have taught most motorists the need for strict attention to the care of their tires.

"Practically every motorist today knows the importances of proper inflation, care of cuts, and avoiding running against the curb or in ruts," says T. E. Hogan of T. E. Hogan, Inc., Ford Fisk tire dealer, "but few realize what an important part the brakes play in the life of tires."

"Poorly adjusted brakes are the cause of many tire failures that come to my attention within the course of a month," he declares. "When brakes are not properly adjusted, the right hand, the tightest brake band locks first when the brake is applied. The locked wheel slides along the road, grinding off the tire tread. Continued driving with brakes unevenly adjusted wears one tire out all too soon."

Often the driver is unaware that his brakes are not adjusted correctly until the tire shows wear. To be sure your brakes are in good adjustment, Mr. Hogan recommends this test.

Jack up the wheels and set both the upper and lower adjustments so that the wheels just run free with the brakes off. Depress the brake pedal slightly so that the bands come in contact with the drums. Start the car in low gear and observe the speed with which the wheels turn. If one wheel turns faster than the other, tighten the brake on that wheel and continue until both wheels revolve at even speed. Then release the brake pedal and make sure that the wheels turn evenly when the brakes are off.

NOTE INCREASE IN WOMAN AUTO DRIVERS

One of the noticeable things in local motor circles is that more women are driving motor cars this year than ever before and many without having a driver to be guided by.

Sales Manager C. F. Mussey of the Hudson-Essex Motor Co., accounts for this by saying the inexpensive motor car has reached the state of perfection where they need very little attention, even during tours of thousands of miles.

"The chief obstacle in many instances when a woman wishes to become an independent and skillful driver is her own nervousness," he declares. "In nearly every instance where individual attention to the instruction of women purchasers is given, they invariably have been successful in operating a car with three road lessons.

"Every woman who contemplates driving a car should make it her aim and ambition to learn the working features of the clutch, spark and throttle control on brakes, familiarising herself with these parts so as to know exactly what should be done in case of emergency."

Laura La Plante peps up with PEP!

WHENEVER a Laura La Plante picture comes to town, it's a promise of fun and pep galore. This season her pictures are peppier than ever. Don't miss a one!

Pep comes to thousands of people at breakfast these days too. In the crispy goodness of delicious Kellogg's PEP.

PEP is the peppiest food you know. It's rich whole wheat—wonderfully flaked and flavored. Contains the vitamins and mineral salts of the nourishing grain. And the bran—just enough to be mildly laxative.

PEP brings pep! It's really health in a package. Serve it for breakfast, lunch or dinner. With milk or cream. With fruits or honey added for extra goodness. Great for kiddies! Your grocer has PEP!

Joe Monte Says He Has Discovered a Punch

By Jack Conway

"I HAVE just been talking with Joe Monte," said Mr. Boston today. "Joe opened his heart to me and told of how he plans to climb the fistic heights. I'll confess I gave particular attention to Monte's utterances as I saw him score a sensational knockout over Frankie Muskie, one of Gene Tunney's sparring partners, at the Dempsey-Sharkey show.

"'I'm going to punch my way into the first flight of heavyweights' said Joe earnestly. 'I have now been boxing for more than four years and believe I have the necessary experience to batter my way out front in the fistic parade.

"'When I first stepped away from the mark in the amateurs, I was a middleweight. I have put on weight and scaled 174 pounds the night I tipped Muskie over.

"'I know that I'll have to give away some weight to fellows like Jim Maloney, Pat McCarthy and Ernie Schaaf, but I think my youth, aggressiveness and punch will enable me to win over these men.'

Mr. Boston

"I QUESTIONED Monte and found that his real name is Joseph Montagano. He was born of Italian parents in Brazil 23 years ago. With his parents, three brothers and three sisters, he came to the United States when a child. He now resides at No. 196 Thatcher street, Brockton.

"Monte was one of the most celebrated of our amateur boxers. He helped to furnish thrills at some of the shows promoted by Billy Cuddy, George Brown, Tom Kanaly, George Freeman and Gene Driscoll.

"Monte hammered his way to the New England light heavyweight championship and later represented the United States in the international amateur bouts in South America.

"Since casting his lot with the money chasers, Monte has scored two wins over both Jack Gagnon and Al Friedman, while he has beaten Jimmy Madden and Rioux. He was upset in one tussle with Joe Woods of California, while he won the other meeting between these boys.

"LIKE most of the good Italian boxers, Monte is in action every second he is in the ring. He is ripping and tearing from bell to bell. The persistency of his attack and his ability to take a healthy sock have carried him to the pugilistic heights.

"Monte was never rated as much of a puncher up to the time he tipped Muskie over. At the time this match was made, Manager Johnny Buckley felt that Monte at the best would only outpoint Muskie. The latter has been with Tunney for a year and was rated as one of the most promising of the younger crop of heavyweights.

"Muskie gave Monte a bitter battle up to the time he was nailed on the chin with a right hand thrust. The Westerner then kissed the canvas. Maybe Monte has discovered how to sock. If so he'll go a long ways along the fistic trails. Add a punch to his natural fighting qualities and the Brockton Italian will be a mighty difficult man to beat.

"MONTE has been one of the most prominent of the heavier of the Italian boxers. Johnny Dundee, former world's featherweight champion, was the class of the Italian mitt wielders. For 12 years Dundee toured the country beating most men who were pitted against him. Johnny Wilson, as middleweight champion, added to the prestige of the Italian boxers.

"For some strange reason, few of the Italian heavyweights have gone far. Arthur DeKuh looked promising up to the time he ran into Jim Maloney.

"Monte's standing is a trifle different from that of DeKuh as he made good in the ranks of the professionals against sturdy opposition.

"Over in New York, they have a new Italian heavyweight sensation in the person of Robertl Roberto. He has been tipping over all opposition and is drawing thousands of Italian fans to the clubs where he is showing.

"Just now, I think Monte would make short work of his Italian rival. Maybe when Robertl Roberto has had a little more experience, the battle for supremacy between these men would be more interesting. Anyhow it would be a good idea to jot Monte's name down among those of young ring stars who bear watching."

Barnes Released; Joins Toledo

New York, Aug. 24 (A.P.)—Jesse Barnes, veteran right-handed pitcher, was released today by the Brooklyn Nationals. As a ten-year man he received his unconditional release. He has signed with the Toledo club of the American Association for the rest of the season.

Barnes was purchased from Boston in 1925 in a deal which also sent Andy High, infielder, to the Braves. Barnes was a star with the New York Giants before going to Boston.

Barnes' release follows reports of disagreement between him and the Brooklyn manager, Wilbert Robinson. Latest pitching records show the veteran around the bottom of the National League list. He has won two and lost ten games.

BUSH HAS CLUB BACK IN RACE

Rain Halts the Double-Header Slated for Today; Two Games Tomorrow

By NICK FLATLEY.

Donie Bush and his Pittsburgh Pirates make their real bid for the National League pennant at the Wigwam tomorrow. The second place owners play two double-headers with the Braves, and when that is over and done with, we may have some idea of what is going to happen in the dizzy race.

The Pirates are only two and a half games back of the leading Cubs, but the Pirates realize that they are stepping into plenty of trouble when they attack the Bancroft outfit. The teams have played 18 games thus far and the Braves have won seven. There was also a tie, and every contest was a fight from the drop of the chapeau.

Nick Flatley

While the Tribe was out in the West, Pittsburgh was leading the parade, and going along as steadily as a leak in the gas tank. Looked as if nothing could stop them. Then the Boston club stepped into the picture, snatched three games, two of them extra inning affairs, and the Pirates stopped in their tracks.

They almost fell out of the race but the Braves who smacked them so fearfully helped to bring them back, by taking three historic conflicts from the Cubs, who likewise were set for a runaway.

THERE is no camaraderie, as they say, between the members of the Bush and Bancroft clubs. The Earl Smith incident caused a breach wider than the holes on Boylston street near the Common, and the air is full of fire when the pair collide. Earl, who has been hitting the ball and doing most of the Corsair catching, has been kept out of Boston by Manager Bancroft's suit. This naturally, has displeased the invaders.

All kinds of influence was used to have the legal proceedings quashed, but Banny refused to back up and thereby won the approbation of every fair minded fan in the country even including Pittsburgh. The Pirates have felt that Boston tried to smite them with undue energy, but the recent experiences of the Cubs here have probably dispelled that illusion.

It looks like a large series stretching as it does to the end of the week, and the results will be just as important in a pennant way as the Chicago engagement, which resurrected real baseball interest here.

Little Mister Bush, who pulled his team out of a bad slump by his own dynamic personality, admits that these five games mean as much to his troops as any series they have [illegible] athletes have [illegible] back and he has a [illegible] [illegible] a job at this stage would come pretty close to dropping Pittsburgh right out of the picture.

THE Pirates are quite an aggregation, apart from their pitching. They are one of the fastest, smoothest and hardest hitting clubs the game has known in quite a [illegible] but they haven't as much class in the box as several other clubs, and for that reason have not manufactured as big a lead as the Yanks [illegible] in the other league.

They are likely to need real pitching in this series. The Braves have been playing [illegible] baseball since they returned from the West. They have won 10 games of 15 played, and that's something more than a mere flash. The team has been hitting as a team, of late, and getting some fine pitching. It's all too late to mean anything, but it does furnish interest in the pennant chase.

This afternoon, Banny will send out Kent Greenfield and Bob Smith to do his heaving. That makes it look like a tough day for Pittsburgh. Greenfield is going like a new Alexander while Smith always has been extremely disturbing to the Pirates. Rain gave the Cubs a chance to escape facing Greenfield and strange as it may seem the league leaders were elated at the vacation. Kent, who couldn't seem to click as a Giant, is now regarded as a wonder by every team in the National League.

Alexander Says Cards Very Much in Race

Philadelphia, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals are not out of the National League pennant race—not if Grover Cleveland Alexander, star Cardinal hurler and hero of the last World Series, knows his baseball.

Here with the world champions for a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] coaches to lead the Cubs or the Pirates to the flag.

"Don't count us out yet," said Alex. "The Cubs are out in front now, but we are right after them. That triple setback in [illegible] tainly did them no good. You know it's a funny thing about a ball club, an apparently minor [illegible] by the four the day after may be the turning point in the race with the club itself.

"Take the first game of the double-header that the Cubs tossed away to the Braves, that 6 to 5 defeat after the Cubs were [illegible] ninth frame leading by three runs and with their ace, Root, on the hill. The Braves pounded out a win. And don't think that doesn't hurt a machine. Carlson lost a game in Brooklyn much the same way when he stepped into the box with a comfortable lead in the eighth, only to lose out. Such defeats for a club of the Cubs' type mean disaster; when they find that other clubs can come from behind and beat them they will lose their cocksureness—and then look out for the toboggan.

"We have nine games to play with the Cubs, six of them on our own grounds, and the Cubs have not won a game in St. Louis this year."

Injuries to O'Farrell, Southworth, Frisch, Thevenow and Blades have handicapped us or we would have stepped away from the field long ago. But when we return to St. Louis just watch our smoke."

RAIN HALTS ARCHERS

The second day [illegible] in the forty-seventh [illegible] [illegible] sociation of the United States [illegible] is being held at Soldiers Field, was postponed on account of rain.

The defending champion, Stanley F. Spencer of San Pedro, California, is fourth.

Miss Kea Bouman, the minute Hollander, was to face Miss Mayme McDonald, once in the first ten, but absent in recent years from all tournaments. Miss Helen Jacobs had Miss Elizabeth Hugus for an opponent and anticipated little trouble in advancing through the third round bracket. Mrs. Molla Mallory, defending champion, was to meet Mrs. William Endicott, No. 10, in the national ranking, a resourceful driver from deep court.

Among the doubles combinations are Mrs. A. H. Chapin and Miss Goss, Miss Fry and Miss Nuthall, Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree and Miss Ermintrude Harvey; Miss Bennett and Miss Jacobs; Mrs. Mallory and Miss Bouman and Miss Hutchings and Miss Beryl Robinson.

Dick Burrus Out of Game for Rest of Season

Dick Burrus probably will not be able to strike another blow for the Braves this season. He has been having trouble with his hip, or pelvic bone, for some time. He limped up to bat as a pinch-hitter last Saturday and struck the timely blow which gave the Braves a win over the Chicago Cubs in the first game.

He hit a clean single to center field, but it was with difficulty that he limped his way down to first base.

He was examined by a specialist and the verdict is that he will be fortunate if he manages to get into another game this season.

COCHET AND OHTA IN FIRST LONGWOOD TILT

Pirates Here Without Smith

Oil Smith's name is not scrawled across the register of the Brunswick today.

While the Pittsburgh Pirates are stopping at the Back Bay hotel, their aggressive catcher is among the missing. Smith is threatened with various law suits started by Dave Bancroft, manager of the Braves, who was knocked out by Oil in a little fistic war at Pittsburgh.

From New York, Smith announced that he was ducking sheriffs [illegible] to Boston for the crucial series with the Braves.

Present-day smokers find their sheerest enjoyment in Camels

THE people of this age spend millions for the good things of life. And they place Camel first among cigarettes.

Modern smokers make money, but when they spend it they insist on quality, and more people today buy Camels than ever bought any other cigarette.

Camel value has won the modern world. Money cannot buy choicer tobaccos, nor a more glorious blending. That's why increasing millions in the modern age single out this famous smoke as their favorite. You, too, will find it yours.

SANDY BURR HAS BUSY PROGRAM

Varied List of Golfing Events Arranged for Popular Wayland Course

Sandy Burr's golf calendar for the next two months presents a varied program, some of which is of an entirely new nature for that club. Four important tournaments are scheduled for September and yet another for the early days of October.

The season opens Friday and Saturday, the second and third with an open 18-hole medal play tourney, to be run under the auspices of the Massachusetts Golf Association.

There are to be prizes in four divisions, first gross and first net—at gross handicaps and handicaps from 18.8 to and 17.4. The course will be open for practice to those entering the tournament on Thursday, September 1.

An open mixed foursome takes place on the 25th, directly preceding Sandy Burr's match, women's tourney, these two events bringing the ladies to Wayland in a rush.

Invitations have been extended to Glenna Collett, Helen Paxson, Mrs. E. H. Baker, Ruth Belcher, Maureen Orcutt and a large group of the leading players in the East.

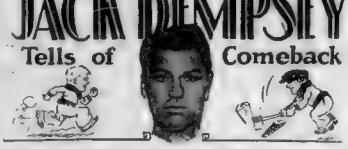
It is also expected that these feminine players will be on hand to team with such stars as Fred Wright, Francis Ouimet, Jesse M. Paul, Eddie Lowery and others who have already accepted invitations to participate in the mixed foursomes.

In between the mixed and open events and the autumn tournament early in the month, comes the New England Left Hand Championship. This annual feature of the season will be held the 13th, 14th and 15th.

October will begin with a four-ball best ball open event on the 1, 2 and 3.

In respect to the women's events it may be remarked that Wells Burrites 84 the highest rating of any course in this district for women players.

JACK DEMPSEY Tells of Comeback



(Copyright 1927 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MY reason for wanting to train in private for the Tunney fight, is because semi-private training for the Sharkey mix-up proved to me that it's a good idea!

In my earlier days, when I was climbing up for a crack at Willard and the crowds wanted to see what I looked like in training, my manager hit upon the admission thing idea. The cost then was 25 cents—later he scaled it up to 50 cents and then to a dollar.

When training for the Tunney battle last year, I talked the admission idea over with Gene Normile, who was handling my business then. Gene thought it was a good notion to charge admission inasmuch as I was invited to train in Atlantic City, largely with the idea that my being in that town might help a bit in the way of publicity.

But I never, at any time, was keen about training in public and charging admission. The folks who paid to get in expected something worth while for their money. Inasmuch as I was supposed to be a fighter, they wished me to knock out a brief dozen sparring partners a day. If I did, they felt repaid. If I didn't, they thought they were being cheated.

WHEN I went to Saratoga to train for Sharkey, it was with the idea that I would train in private. But Tom Luther, who owns the place, exerted all his oratory on Leo P. Flynn and finally got Leo to agree to the public admission plan at $1 a head of which Tom received half.

I met the same situation then as in other cities. The crowds scarcely got their dollar because they wanted to see me murder a few sparring partners. I see me get murdered. It didn't matter much to them who was murdered. But they did want murder done and for $1.

If I knocked out one or two of the men the crowd could see in one of my own banged me around they'd cheer, even colder. And if nothing were exciting happened they'd go home and tell the neighbors they had been flim flammed.

LATE in my Saratoga training, I had the chance to bar the public and to train only in the presence of reporters and friends of my staff, or my own friends.

And that plan made a hit with me.

For I found it no longer was necessary to try to please a crowd so as to halt them from thinking they were cheated. I found that I could do as I pleased in my afternoon's work instead of doing pretty much what the crowd expected, and which it figured it had paid to see.

So far as I am concerned personally I am all through with paid public training performances, for I never liked them in the first place, and now feel that as a regular thing they hand me in my efforts to achieve the peak of condition for a fight.

Canning Chicken Source of Profit

By MARTHA LEE

HOW many ancient and honorable hens and roosters are you supporting in the luxury in which they have been accustomed?

Don't you think they would be far more profitable safely tucked away in shining glass jars on the pantry shelves in the form of rich soups and fricassees?

Chicken canning is becoming more and more popular, and there is no reason in the world why the veriest novice in the culinary arts should not try her hand at this delicious and money-saving branch of canning.

For canning purposes, kill the chicken at least six hours in advance, as it takes that long for the animal heat to leave the body. Remove the feathers and singe. Clean the surface of the chicken thoroughly by rubbing it with soda or bran or by washing it with soap and luke warm water. If soap is used, rinse the chicken thoroughly afterwards.

First, remove the feet, wings and legs, including the thighs. Sever the drumstick from the thigh. From the wing opening cut open the skin on the neck, cutting as far up as possible. With the fingers separate the windpipe from the gullet and loosen the crop.

Next find the shoulder blades. These are two small bones, the ends of which can be found lying near the backbone. Cut under each shoulder blade as far as the point and remove by breaking it at that point. The shoulder blade has been called the "key" bone because when it is removed it unlocks the other bones to which it is joined.

When the shoulder blades have been removed look for the cartilegres on the ribs, or the "buttons," as they are sometimes called. These mark the place at which the rib bones meet. Beginning at the wing opening, cut down through the "buttons," taking care not to go too deep. By projecting this cutting in a direct line as much the point of the pelvic bone.

Cut around this bone to the vent. We have now made one long fairly straight incision from the head to the vent. Now insert the fingers into the body cavity and loosen the entrails from the carcass. When this has been done, cut carefully entirely around the vent, freeing the intestines from the body.

Up to this time the work has been done on a cutting board. At this point in the process place a piece of paper under the chicken so that the entrails when removed will rest on the paper and not on the wood. Hold the chicken firmly with one hand gently pull out the viscera with a single motion, pulling toward the head. Sever the head from the body if the chicken has not already been beheaded in killing process.

Divide the carcass in half by cutting down on the "buttons" on the back. Remove the oil sac.

Wipe the inside of the upper portion with a cloth. Cut the back into two parts. The white meat or fillet may be cut from the breastbone of the hen, especially if the chicken weighs over three pounds. Cut out the wishbone with the meat adhering to it.

At this stage you should be forty pieces of chicken. The animals consist of three more edible pieces, the heart, liver and gizzard. To remove the lining from the gizzard begin by cutting through the thickest portion, being careful not to cut into the hen. Wipe or scrape the inside of the gizzard.

It is a good plan in packing a number of chickens to make two distinct packs. Place in one the selected parts such as the breast, drumsticks, thighs, wings, etc. This may be called the "company" jar. The less desirable parts, wing tips, neck and other bony pieces, although they are just as nutritious and tasty, can be put into the "family" jar to be used for soup or stews.

Add two level teaspoons of salt. Do not add any water. Place a jar ring on the jar. Partially seal and process in a pressure cooker at 15 pounds pressure for 60 minutes. If a water bath is used, process for a period of 4 hours, counting time only from the time the water begins to boil vigorously.

For the canning of meats and non-acid vegetables, it is advised by the United States Department of Agriculture that the steam pressure cooker be used.

Scientists are now stressing the importance of thoroughly heating or re-cooking canned vegetables and canned meats before serving. For this reason no partial cooking of heating was done before the chicken was packed in the jar.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

(2)—Should a boy precede a girl in leaving a street car, if he is accompanying her?

D. R.

IT depends on what kind they are. With a white dress, white chiffon, for instance, white satin slippers and white stockings are appropriate, of course. Informal white slippers are not correct with an evening frock.

(2)—Yes, in order to be in position to help her from the car.

Attendants' Flowers.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Who buys the flowers for the bride's attendants?

H. V.

USUALLY the parents of the bride buy the flowers for the attendants of the bride, for they are planned to be part of the costumes of the attendants, and harmonize in color with the decorations of the church.

Newspaper Announcement.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

I have been engaged for almost ten years, but my engagement was never announced through the newspapers. Now my aunt would like to announce my marriage in the papers. Would you advise the proper wording of this?

A READER.

MR. and Mrs. Geoffrey Smith of No. 604 Winchester street, announce the marriage of their niece, Alice Marjorie Brown, to Mr. William Wright, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mackaid Wright, of No. 352 South street, on Tuesday, August ninth. The ceremony was performed by —— of United Church.

Wedding Gifts.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please let me know if it is correct to send a wedding gift to the bridegroom, who is my cousin, if I am not acquainted with the bride?

A CONSTANT READER.

YOU may send in a separate present, a "personal" present, to the groom, your cousin, but the real wedding present, the present for the new home, is always sent to the bride, whether or not we are acquainted with her. So, unless you wish to send two presents send your present to the bride, enclosing your card.

Betrothal Gifts.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have received an invitation to an engagement party and I would like to know if it is proper to give the girl a present, or is it not necessary?

MARY.

IT is proper, if you wish, but it is not necessary.

Introduction Forms.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Is the gentleman introduced to the lady, or vice versa? Will you give me an example, please?

2. How would you introduce a young man and an elderly lady? An elderly man and a young lady?

MRS. F.

A GENTLEMAN is introduced to a lady. An excellent formula, really the best, is: "Miss Lady, may I present Mr. Gentleman" If you feel that the word "present" is too formal—although it really isn't formal—you may substitute the word "introduce." Or for the usual introduction, you may mention only the names, "Miss Lady, Mr. Gentleman."

And all this is true even if the gentleman is a very old and distinguished gentleman and the lady is a very young lady.

Training Defectives

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOUR child may or may not be a mental defective. If not, your neighbor's child may be in that unfortunate class. In either event, you have a human interest in the mental defective problem which is now becoming a serious one in all civilized countries.

Far more of these unhappy people are born than the State is prepared to take care of. They are incapable of learning by ordinary education methods. They cannot support themselves like normal people. They are always more liable than normal subjects to fall into crime and misconduct. They have not the ordinary amount of self-control and so breed outside marriage much more readily than do intelligent persons. Their descendants are nearly always deficient themselves. Therefore any institution that goes in for training mental defectives to be useful, even under supervision, is worth its weight in gold. Unfortunately there are not sufficient institutions for more than a fraction of the mentally defective population, and a great increase in accommodation of this kind is vitally necessary.

The lowest, or idiot, class must be kept under constant supervision all its life, as it cannot even learn even to protect itself from ordinary dangers.

The middle, or imbecile, class can be taught to make its living in the protected conditions of a home, but is unfit to be allowed liberty and hardly ever to be looked after in its own family, unless it belongs to the well-to-do class.

The high-grade, feeble-minded, or moron, class, however, is capable of being sufficiently educated to look after itself outside a home, if it is put under proper guardianship. The trouble is to prevent morons breeding and propagating the deficiency in the next generation.

Homes for the mentally defective, of which Caswell, N. C., is a good example, are self-contained institutions with their own hospitals, power-houses laundries, cow and milk barns, cultivations and farm buildings. They go in for every kind of training that it is possible to give defectives, and do their best to fit every person to the kind of work for which he is best suited.

The moron class at Caswell gets regular school work up to an including the fourth grade. The lower grades get kindergarten and muscle training. All grades get gymnastics, rug-making, art and craft work, milking, carpentry, painting, housekeeping and kitchen work, also farm work and fruit growing.

DON'T APOLOGIZE FOR YOUR HOME BY ANY MEANS

BE a thoroughbred and don't apologize if your home and its furnishings do not come up to what your guests might have expected.

If those who accept your hospitality are the kind who would consider your home and its appointments from the standpoint of how cheap and simple they are, you are not entertaining true friends.

Whatever your friends think of your home should not matter to you.

Your true friends are interested in you, not in your furniture

Don't make yourself unhappy because your means will not permit you to make a better showing.

SEA FOOD tastes better when seasoned with LEA & PERRINS' SAUCE

Expert cooks advise "two ingredients in one"

HERE'S a little cooking secret that adds deliciousness and subtracts expense. Professional bakers, confectioners and ice cream makers all know it—and now housewives are learning it. It's this:

Whenever a recipe calls for both milk and sugar, use Condensed Milk (Standard Brand). It gives you the two ingredients in one—fresh, pure, full-cream country milk and finest sugar, blended with a richness and smoothness no home method can equal.

Ordinary bottled milk is 87% water. But Standard Brand Condensed Milk has had most of this water removed. Its percentage of butterfat is more than twice as high as that of bottled milk. This super-richness shows in your cooking!

Standard Brand Condensed Milk makes richer, smoother, creamier puddings, custards, Spanish creams, icings and fillings. It improves hot breads, too—giving them an evenness of texture and crispness of crust you've never known before. For candies it is ideal. And it makes wonderful mayonnaise that never curdles or separates.

Watch this space for delightful recipes, and write to the Borden Company, 350 Madison Ave., New York, for "Condensed Milk and its Uses in Good Cookery"—a complete recipe booklet.

And, by the way—did you know that Standard Brand Condensed Milk will cream-and-sugar your coffee to rich golden deliciousness—at one-half the cost of sugar and cream? Try it! You'll agree with the millions who find these fine breakfast coffee a new delight because of it...

Get Standard Brand at your grocer's today! Remember—it keeps without ice!

For Finest Flavor ask for "Jersey"

"JERSEY" Stands for the best in Milk and Cream. So does "Jersey" stand for the Purest and Best in Ice Cream.

"Jersey" flavors are true flavors. Only ripe, finest fruits and berries are used. Never fruit "extracts." These would be much cheaper, but they would never give that delicious "Jersey" taste.

True fruit flavors make Jersey Ice Cream cost your dealer a little more, but he knows that its extra cost is justified because Jersey Ice Cream satisfies his trade.

Yet "Jersey" costs you no more than other creams. That is why it will pay you to patronize a "Jersey" dealer—if you enjoy delicious flavors.

ROBERT TERRY SHANNON
Author of "THE TAXI DANCER"

A Story of Sylvia Byrant, Stenographer, Among the Money Crowd

Joyce Ackerman, society woman and wife of Vance Ackerman, rich broker, appeals to a mutual friend, Alexander Ladd, a successful lawyer, to help her in her battle with Margot Liggett, who has won her husband's affections. Ladd persuades Mrs. Ackerman to install Sylvia Bryant, his stenographer, in her home as her social secretary. Ackerman admires Sylvia's beauty and charm, and Stuart Gifford, his cousin, falls in love with her. He makes light of marriage and she refuses to let him kiss her. Mrs. Ackerman confesses to Sylvia that she hoped her presence would aid in keeping her husband away from Margot. Sylvia overhears Margot's divorced husband threaten to kill Ackerman who defies him and says he is going out with Margot that very night. To avert a tragedy Sylvia begs him to take her to dinner. She tells Mrs. Ackerman what she is doing. Ackerman takes her to a revue.

CHAPTER 27.

IN the close space of the telephone booth Sylvia waited tremulously for the sound of Stuart Gifford's voice. His personality, well-modulated, restrained, reached her over the wire.

"Hello."

Her mouth was dry as she spoke. "Stuart . . . something awful has happened. Mr. Ackerman . . . something has happened to him. He has been hurt. . . ."

Baffling silence confronted her; for a moment she wondered if the telephone connection had been broken. At last he spoke, guardedly:

Joyce has just left the room. I was waiting for her to get out before I answered you. What happened?"

"I—I can't tell you—exactly. We were sitting into a taxicab when someone—with a knife—"

"How badly was he hurt?"

"Terribly. I'm afraid he may die—"

"Where is he?"

"I don't know."

"You don't know? Why don't you know? Weren't you with him?"

"Yes; but he went away in a taxicab. I got out of it and—" She could hear Gifford groan. . . .

"Where are you now?"

"I don't know, exactly—"

His voice came to her, bitter with startled annoyance. "Good God—snap out of it! Pull yourself together. Tell me where you are and I'll hop right down."

"I'm in a drug store in the Back Bay."

"I'll grab a taxi and come down to Copley Square. Meet me at Clarendon and Boylston."

Moving mechanically, Sylvia left the drug store, bare-headed, in satin slippers and white ermine, she wandered, with clutched heart, toward the appointed rendezvous. Men were looking at her oddly; a policeman passed and gave her a searching glance. A man spoke to her under his breath, but she scarcely heard him.

"I've got to get hold of myself," she said silently. "Can't go to pieces like a fool!"

Easier said than done, however—it was as though she walked, tremblingly, through a fog. At the corner she waited for a stretching duration of minutes before Stuart Gifford arrived.

He got out of a cab and came to her, his face set with a serious mien.

"Now just exactly what is the big idea of all this you were giving me over the telephone?" he demanded, nervously aggressive. "I didn't tell Joyce a word—don't want to shock her if there's nothing to it. Where is Vance?"

"I don't know," Sylvia said. "He's home by now, I suppose."

"Home? Did somebody take him home?"

"He was in a taxi-cab and the driver had the address. Oh, it was terrible, Stuart. We were getting into a machine when a man came up and stabbed him. . . ."

"What man?"

"I don't know—I didn't see his face. I got out to get a doctor or an ambulance and the taxi went off with Mr. Ackerman in it."

Stuart Gifford twisted his lips. "You say it was a bad wound?"

"I think so; he was bleeding terribly."

"Why did the taxi go off with him in it alone?"

"I don't know—I suppose he told the driver to go on. The driver didn't know he was hurt."

Gifford looked at Sylvia sharply. "Had Vance been drinking?"

"No."

"Had you?"

"A little; practically nothing."

"Are you telling me the truth?"

"Of course I am, Stuart."

They were walking now, aimlessly.

"What were you doing in this neighborhood, anyway?" he asked, suspiciously.

"After the theatre we went to a place called Colonel Bailey's."

"Does Bailey know about this?"

"Nobody knows about it but you and I and the man who stabbed Mr. Ackerman. Oh, Stuart! What am I going to do? What can I tell Mrs. Ackerman?"

"That's it. It won't be very pleasant for any of us. Why didn't you tell Joyce about it when you first called up the house?"

"I wanted to talk to you, Stuart."

"Why?"

"Because—because I was all upset and I thought I could depend on you—that you would tell me what to do or say."

"Knowing what you did, you should have told Joyce everything or have gone straight home," he said, none too sympathetically.

"I didn't know what to do—I was afraid," she explained. "I thought you might be able to tell me—"

His handsome face was set with a scowl. "I don't know exactly what to do or think myself," he said. "I don't like this business at all. If Vance wanted to run around and get himself mixed up with a lot of women and rough stuff, believe me he's going to get everyone connected with this affair smirched up. I don't want anything like this connected with my name at all. I wish you hadn't called me in the first place. Why didn't you call Joyce herself?"

"I thought—"

"The trouble with you is that you didn't think," he said severely. "Suppose Vance is fatally wounded; suppose he dies! A pretty bottle of fish it will make. You're in it up to your neck, and now you've had me come down here and meet you—Joyce knows you phoned for me—there will be no end of a squawk all over town."

Sylvia sighed wearily. Much of her nervous force had been exhausted and she was not exactly sure what Stuart Gifford was blaming her for.

"What does it matter—? If Mr. Ackerman dies, these little details won't mean a thing."

"Oh, won't they?" Gifford almost sneered. "You don't seem to realize that your story is pretty thin and that you will be under suspicion by the police for having stabbed Vance yourself. As a matter of fact, I don't know whether you are telling me the truth or not. If a thing like this had to happen, I wish to God you hadn't got me involved in it. Here you've got me down in the vicinity of it, at approximately the time it happened—how do I know I won't be accused?"

She looked at him, his features were as clear-cut as ever, but, suddenly, he seemed remote and unfamiliar. This was the man who had sat with her in the moonlight of a Carolina mountain and told her of his love; yet now he was almost a stranger.

"I'm sorry," she said, with a sinking sensation in her heart. "I thought you might be glad I went to you first of all."

"Well, I'm not!"

They passed an almost empty restaurant. Gifford took her by the arm and steered her toward the entrance. He put her at a table.

"You sit here and order coffee—or something—for both of us. I'm going to phone the house to see if they know anything."

At the front of the place he found a telephone. Several minutes later he was back at the table, his face pallid.

"Well, Vance got home a little while ago," he said in a chill voice. "That maid, Haley, answered the phone. Vance got home all right—but he was dead when he got there."

Why Girls Are Lonely -:- -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

SHE PREFERS A "WILD BUNCH" TO LONELINESS — BUT SHE IS LONELY IN THE MIDST OF THEM

By Beatrice Fairfax,
An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

NOT so long ago I printed a letter signed "Lonesome." The writer was certain that she was lonesome only because she refused to pet and drink and do other things she felt were not quite "straight." Now comes a reply to this letter.

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"Will you please print in your column this message to Lonesome?

"My Dear Miss Lonesome: I was once in your position. My case is not only coarse was to have my fling at being popular.

"I have become just one of those popular flappers—in fact, too popular—who smoke and use cosmetics and drink a little, once in a while. I always go out with a fast and wild bunch. I am never chaperoned in any way I do as I please.

"But Lonesome, I would change places with you any day in the week. Oh, yes, when it comes to getting thrills, I never have any trouble, for I am a baby with big blue eyes I weigh 120 pounds and am five feet four inches tall. But the men I attract are not the kind who settle down.

"Dearie, when your man comes along, he will be a man. For a real man will always choose an old-fashioned girl as his wife, and will leave out the flappers. You're in jolly good company.

A FLIP-FLAPPER.

Thank you, "Flapper," for your frank letter. Not every girl is as honest with herself as you are. I would suggest a better way out than the path you chose—a course that will not mean regrets and loss of self-respect.

Accept solitude if it comes your way and make the best of it. Why this I do not for an instant mean that a sensible girl should not do her full share of entertaining, and should not make herself as attractive and lovable as possible.

But cease to hate loneliness. Evenings at home won't hurt you. Solitude has been the making of great souls. From David to Colonel Lindbergh, from Joan of Arc to the mother of Lincoln.

Learn to be good company for yourself, then you will love, not dread, solitude. And the moment you become self-reliant, poised, cheery, fine company for your own self, one with the entire world is friendly good will, others will begin to seek you out.

'Where's Emily?'; Sayre Tries to Puzzle Out Her Disappearance

and stops to talk to it, and then again, the sight of one seems to repel her and she goes off in a nervous fit."

"Exactly. That's what I mean. Well, say she refused to go with Emily, and Emily went on alone. Then, for some reason, Emily left her for with Polly. Polly was chilly, or Emily was too warm, or—well, you must agree that's all possible."

"Good for you, Burton," Emily said. "You've built up a most plausible case. And, to continue, say that the whole matter of the lacy threw Polly into one of her fits of melancholy, and as she stood, looking over the bridge rail, she yielded to a sudden impulse to end her life."

"That doesn't throw any light on Emily's proceedings," said Sayre. "Even if it were true, it would only explain what whatever happened to Emily, happened after she left Polly on the bridge of the little ravine. We can understand Polly's death, at least we can see how it might have happened. But Polly's absence is as utterly inexplicable now as it was when we first began to feel alarmed. So I can think of nothing better to do than to get a big detective and let him take care of the whole matter."

"I don't look at it as you do, at all, Rod. No indeed. I don't think Polly killed herself—"

"Oh, Heavens, Nell I don't care what you think!"

It was unlike Sayre's equanimity to speak like this, but Nell had tried him all the evening and his nerves were at breaking point. He could be quiet and calm if let alone, but these futile discussions jarred him.

"Forgive me," he said, quickly repentant, "but I'm about all in. I wish you folks would go off to bed, or if you don't want to do that, go in some other room to chatter."

"Let's do that," said Lamb, with a quick glance at Rod's quivering fingers still clutched in the sofa fur.

"Oh, nonsense, I didn't mean it."

Sayre's reactions were always immediate. "Stay here, but don't talk to me."

"Talk to me," said Pete. "I love it."

They retired to the other end of the long room, and talked among themselves. It was easy without Sayre, for though they all loved Emily, it was not the vital thing to them it was to Rodney, and they began to feel the excitement of it all rising above the grief.

And, too, there was always hope. Whatever had happened, Emily might yet return safe and sound.

Sayre's voice interrupted them.

"People," he said, "come back here."

"This," said Rod, holding up the fur, "must be reported to the police. I wonder you haven't sent for it before. I wonder I didn't see it sooner. It's most important evidence."

Detective Lane or Crime Inspired to the story. He was greatly impressed.

He accepted their declaration that the fur was positively Emily's and that she had positively worn it when she left the house. Also their statement that Mrs. Pennington had not worn her fur, which was exactly like it.

"You think it important?" asked Gibby, trying to gauge the detective mind.

"Vitally. At what time did Johnson give you this?"

"Just after they had taken Mrs. Pennington to the hospital. I said I would return it to Mrs. Pennington, as, of course, we assumed it to be hers—"

"Of course. Well, I'll have to take it along," Lawlor ashed dryly.

"Look here," he said, suddenly, "who left this house first, Mrs. Pennington or Miss Duane?"

"Why, I don't know," Betty said, taking it on herself to answer. "You see, Emily just flung a word to Mrs. Nell and myself to say proper good-byes to departing guests, as she would be away for a few minutes."

"You thought nothing of that?"

"Mercy, no, why should I?"

"What time was that?"

"I don't know. About five, I guess."

"Well, did Mrs. Pennington go then?"

"Let me see, she—"

"I know this much," Sayre put in, "Emily said good-bye to the Penningtons, for I saw and heard her. Then she came to me and told me she was going over to the hospital, and she went immediately. I should say they left about the same time, within five minutes or so."

"Mrs. Pennington must have gone first," said Lawlor, decidedly.

"How do you get that?"

"Why, if Miss Duane had gone first, she would have gone on to the hospital and Mrs. Pennington couldn't have met her on the bridge."

"How do you know they did meet on the bridge?"

"How otherwise, could Mrs. Pennington become possessed of Miss Duane's fur?"

"Perhaps Miss Duane dropped her fur piece as she was on her way to the hospital and Mrs. Pennington received it." This from Lamb, who was thinking deeply.

"Perhaps, but that necessitates Miss Duane's having gone first."

"I can't see," put in Nell, petulantly. "What certain difference it make which one went first?"

"That's the difference—if Miss Duane went first, she must surely have the ravine bridge on her way before Mrs. Pennington appeared.

"Proving," said Burton Lamb, "that Miss Duane didn't tell Mrs. Pennington about the Laurence baby, and so threw her into a melancholy fit, which caused her to end her life. That it?"

"Something like that," said Lawlor.

"Do you think her fail was not an accident?" asked Rodney, his face suddenly changing.

"I'm almost certain it was not. The bridge rails are not worn or broken in any way."

"Somebody aided they were."

"It may have looked so because the rails were broken and worn. They are so carefully kept that any imperfection shows at once. And of the place where Mrs. Pennington's fall occurred they are greatly mended."

Good Advice to the Lovelorn

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

How can I win the heart of the man I love? I am bound and determined to marry him and I am not going to give up hope while both of us are still living. I love him so much that I cannot bear to think of going through life without him. Please do not think I am just infatuated.

I have known him for three years and have been seeing quite a lot of him during the last six months. When I first met him I said to myself, "That's the man" I haven't ever given up the idea that some day I will be more to him than just a friend. Mother and Dad both like him very well and I know they would approve of our marriage.

He is twenty-three years old, attractive and is very well liked by everybody he comes in contact with. I am twenty and modern in every detail except the petting business. I do not pet and hope I will not have to resort to that artifice to win him.

Please tell me how I can make him see that I am the girl for him. But do not tell me to forget him, because I never will. I thank you.

LOIS.

BE yourself, Lois — your most attractive, lovable self—when you are with him. Men are repelled by affectations. So be natural. Look well to the little details of daintiness and charm, such as daintily grooming and becoming, appropriate dress. Be as pretty as you can.

Interest yourself in his hobbies and interests, listen sympathetically to him—in short make yourself companionable to him in every way. Keep healthy for health is a magnet of charm.

Do not frighten him away by sensitiveness. Let him take the initiative in that respect. Have you invited him to come to see you? Make him feel comfortable and welcome when he comes. Look an inviting meal for him. You are going him to love you, of course, but you have half way in the friendship, your affection for him as far for you will deepen and grow just to the extent that you are naturally congenial and suited to each other.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

There is a young man—I'll call him Tom—whom I have liked for nearly two years. When we are together we are both happy. But when he leaves me on the defensive about me. When I see him, different places he seems so indifferent. I can't understand him. I am eighteen. He is nearly nineteen.

Some would call my feeling for him infatuation. But do you think infatuation would last two years? I've liked other men—that is, the more I saw them the less I disliked them. But the trouble is I can't see Tom often enough. Please tell me what the trouble is.

PUZZLED.

YOUR friend, Tom, likes you, but is not in love with you, Puzzled. If he loved you he would not leave you in any doubt on the subject. A girl is older and more mature at eighteen than a boy is. Tom will in all probability be more or less unsettled and variable in his affections for several years before settling down to one girl. If I were you I would appreciate and encourage his friendship, but refuse to allow myself to think of him seriously as a sweetheart. Encourage other good friends also.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Recently I was invited to a party, as I have heard they are going to play kissing games at this party, and I do not approve of these games. I wonder whether I should go. If I go I know I will be forced to join in the kissing games. I know there are a lot more who do not approve, but they are not strong enough to admit it.

Kissing games may be fun for some people, but I find them disgusting and humiliating.

GEORGE B. T.

BY all means say nay, from the party, rather than find yourself forced to take part in pastimes you feel are disgusting.

HIGH LIFE IN SHAFTER

By the Shafter Progress.

Mary and Marjorie Grant gave a party last Saturday evening at their home in Shafter. Games and music were played. The entire party went down to the Santa Fe station to see the 9 o'clock train come in, and everybody had a lot of fun greeting the occupants of the Pullman who were still up and awake.

THE CUTEST THING BABY EVER SAID

My man-child, Jerrold, age 7, heard his father complaining Sunday because he had been unable to secure service at his country club on account of the demands of new members, and asserting that he had been an habitue of that club for some years and deserved some privileges. Later in the afternoon Jerrold and I encountered our pastor, who said to Jerrold:

"And who is this little man?"

"I'm the son of a habitue," Jerrold replied.

—Laura Grue Nathan.

Bit: Hunger overtook me in Sunset boulevard, but the name of the first cafe I came to—THE FLY INN—cured my appetite.

SMILE MASKS CRACKED HEART OF BRIDESMAID

Sunday Girl Puts Up Brave Front but Suffers Keenest Woe—Review of "Marline," Miss Wheeler Widow Romance

Maurice, gargling the bitter cup of pain, prepared for the wedding —the wedding that was to snatch Vivian Daggerfield from beer trembling grip and hurl him into the arms of Helen Trevor, or Trevor.

"There was a week of bustle and of hurry!
A state y home echoed to voices sweet,
Calling, naying: and to tripping feet
Of busy bridesmaids, ruunning to and fro
With all but girlish fluttering and flurry
Preceding such occasions

Helen's room
Was like a lily garden, all in bloom
Decked with the dainty robes of her trousseau.
My robe (Maurice speaking) was fashioned by swift, skillful hands—
A thing of beauty, elegant and rich,
A mystery of loopings, puffs and bands—

But Maurice, despite her ever-ready smile, looked ghastly. Horror gripped her heart, and even while she dapped around the house, tossing flowers here and there, boxing and doing little dance steps, tears trickled down her cheeks and she choked and moaned every time she found herself alone behind a lace curtain.

MEDBURY SAYS---

SEVERAL prominent scientists are making a domestic survey with the idea of ascertaining what's wrong with marriage. They're only wasting their time. Millions of husbands have been trying for years to find out the same thing.

THERE'S nothing the matter with wedlock, it's the couples who go into it that are giving marriage a bad name.

IF it wasn't for the bride and groom, every wedding would be a success.

IT'S usually the participants who spoil the nuptials.

LOVE is a wound, and marriage is the fly in the ointment.

THE matrimonial bark generally turns out to be a battleship.

EVERY minister is a fight promoter.

THE ceremony may be beautiful, but no matter how many rings you use, wedlock is no circus.

THOUSANDS of romances have been broken up at the altar.

A CLEVELAND couple tried to put marriage on a friendly basis by taking separate honeymoons.

THE wedding trip is over when the bride starts kicking the groom in the shins.

THE average woman never takes her husband seriously. She's always looking forward to the next one.

MARRIAGE is supposed to be sacred. That's why you always have to swear to your divorce complaint.

IT'S like every other union, a man never knows when there's going to be a walkout.

MATRIMONY is a public institution that's run by the state of chaos.

AND every love-sick fellow who has $3 wants to become an inmate

Famous Composers

THROUGH a healthy boy's love of mischief, the world very nearly failed to receive the marvelous gift of Rossini's genius. Born on February 29, 1792, of humble parentage, Rossini was early placed under the instruction of Prinetti, who, recognizing the remarkable ability of the child, gave him free lessons. However, the bald head and huge spectacles of the master aroused all the mischief in the boy and he constantly annoyed him, until, exasperated, Prinetti refused to teach him any longer. This so incensed the elder Rossini that he apprenticed the boy to a silversmith. Later he repented his action and obtained the boy's release. He was then sent to study with Angelo Tesei, who taught him singing and harmony.

Three years later Rossini entered the Bologna Conservatory to study counterpoint. The boy's musical education was less than half finished when he was appointed director of the Academy. It was during this period that he composed his first cantata, "The Death of Orpheus."

In 1810 Rossini composed his first opera, and between the years 1815 and 1823 he wrote twenty operatic dramas. In 1823 Rossini went to London, where his compositions proved immensely popular. From London he went to Paris, where he was appointed musical director of the Theatre Italien at a cost which he held for two years and where he found such favor that he was appointed composer to the King and inspector-general of singing in France.

In 1829 "William Tell," which has been called his masterpiece, was produced, and this practically concluded his career as an operatic composer. From then on he wrote but little his "Stabat Mater" was begun in 1831 and finished in 1832. From this time until his death it is hard to realize that one is reading the life of the same person. The first years were those of swift triumph, of marvelous achievements and world-wide recognition. The latter years were those of a recluse, spending his days in retirement, interesting himself in fish culture.

In 1845 his first wife, Isabelle Colbran, died and in 1847 he married Olympe Pelissier, who was the model for Verner's famous painting, "Judith and Holofernes."

Rossini died on November 13, 1868, at his country place in Passy, leaving the world a sublime heritage of musical magnificence. Had he written nothing else but his "Stabat Mater," the "Barber of Seville" and "William Tell," his fame would still be—as it ever will—among those of the most honored and best loved composers of all times.

Do You Know—

Totally illiterate people have been taught to read and write in ten lessons of two hours each or a French lady, whose new system has been taken up by the French Minister of War?

Among Britain's oldest families are twenty who have direct descent from before the Norman conquest in 1066, while thirty-five families go back to ancestors who came over with William the Conqueror?

As things are going now in the employment world it is estimated that in 1928 there will be a serious shortage of boys, due to the lower birthrate in the war years 1913 to 1919.

Bell-making is one of the oldest of British industries. It dates back to the twelfth century?

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

THERE ought to be a "Flatterer's Union")

* * *

Won't somebody found a Y. A. R. (You're All Right) Club? All critics, cynics egotists and pessimists to be barred. Positively none but Pleasant People admitted!

Most of us are frazzled to shreds these frank days. Just from hearing the honest truth about ourselves from our dear, dear friends!

* * *

How easy it is to love your enemies, after one of these sessions with your friends!

* * *

THEY, at least, are never rude enough to inform you that your "bob" is all wrong, your hats too youthful, your skirts too short, and your ways too skittish for your years.

* * *

Personally, I prefer an ice cold, well-bred enemy around the house to a frank, joltiful friend any day. At least you know that your enemy will stab you in the back. But you never know whether your "honest friend" is going to wound you in the face or the heart, or the vanity or the dignity. You are always unprepared for the blow, and it goes deep—and HURTS.

* * *

Why does "friendship" so often resolve itself into the mere privilege of being critical and mutually disagreeable. I wonder? The cold on the hearth is a terrible thorn in the side—if you don't mind how you mix your metaphors!

* * *

The world appears to be getting fuller and fuller of these self-elected reformers—people who go about looking at everybody and everything through the blue glasses of cynicism instead of through rose colored spectacles.

* * *

As far as they are concerned whatever is, is wrong. Whether it's your clock or your husband, or your moral standards or your politics, or your cook or your taste in fiction. And they can always tell you just how to "improve" yourself!

* * *

Whether they do it from a noble, friendly motive or merely in order to appear clever and original and "superior"—or whether they fancy that by throwing everybody and everything into the shadow of disapproval, they can stand out in a strong white light of contrasting perfection, it's awfully wearisome!

* * *

After a while it becomes a habit, a passion an obsession with them. And then they wonder why they are lonely and unpopular and unappreciated. They simply can't understand why you don't enjoy receiving little stabs in your vanity and pin pricks in your self-esteem, and why you don't admire and love them for their frankness and sincerity.

* * *

But as for me, I'm sure all over from being "reformed" and "informed." I'm looking for a new, pleasant deceitful kingdom, who will tell me that I'm PERFECTION—and let it go at that!

Most of America's Crops Show Gain Over Last Year

Practically all of the nation's crops with the exception of corn and apples are showing a decided improvement over last season, according to reports made public by the New England crop reporting service based on statistics furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Favorable crop reports have been received in most cases from various sections of the country.

Probably one of the greatest sufferers this year throughout the United States is the apple crop. This applies especially to New England where the apple crop as reported for the past month is the smallest commercial apple crop for New England since the poor crop of 1923.

Another heavy sufferer this season is the corn crop. Corn in the United States, according to a report issued recently, had an indicated production of 2,385,226,000 bushels, which would be the smallest crop but one (1924) in twenty-six years. During the past month, however, improvement in the corn crop was general in certain sections of the country. Conditions are very poor in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois but somewhat better in other important States.

Potato prospects for the United States have improved in all sections of the country and in all important late States. The outlook at the time of the last report is for a crop of 410,714,000 bushels compared with 356,123,000 bushels last year and 394,135,000 bushels the past five-year average.

The condition of hay and pastures continued to improve throughout the country. Frequent rains have delayed haying in most sections and have damaged the quality of the hay somewhat. Pastures generally are providing plenty of feed.

Oats throughout New England are better than the average and a crop of 9,972,000 bushels is expected as compared with 9,448,000, the average New England production for the last five years, but the crop throughout the rest of the United States was slightly lower.

The condition for the commercial apple crop in the United States continued to decline during the past month. During the period in question prospective production declined 5.1 per cent and now promises to be 24,831,000 barrels compared with 39,411,000 barrels harvested during 1926 and 33,710,000 barrels for a five-year average.

Peaches for the United States are about two-thirds of last year's crop. Pears are a moderate crop in New England. For the United States, pears are 30 per cent. less than last year.

X-RAY

Examination, consultation, trial treatment and medicine absolutely free to all who call before Aug. 28. The wonderful power of the X-Ray and mercury quartz light treatment is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonders in diseases of every description—catarrh, bronchitis, deafness, stomach, nerve and skin diseases. No matter what your disease may be, remember Daniel J. Walsh, M. D., 18 Boylston St., will make good the above offer.

DEAF

MR. EARNEST HEAD, 273 PUTNAM AVE., CAMBRIDGE, SAYS: "I had been deaf in both ears ever since I can remember. It seemed to be a family affliction, as other members of the family were more or less affected with deafness. There was a discharge from my ears, and crusts or scales would form that would block my ears and interfere seriously with my hearing. I had been to doctors, and also was treated at the Eye and Ear Infirmary, where the doctors claimed that I would die from the trouble some day, as it could not be helped. I read of D. J. Walsh, M. D., and had him treat me, and he stopped the discharge and restored my hearing, which has remained good, although a year has passed since Dr. Walsh treated me."

STOMACH

MRS. EARNEST HEAD, 273 PUTNAM AVE., CAMBRIDGE, MASS., SAYS: "I had indigestion, stomach trouble for ten years. I had been treated by numerous doctors who promised me nothing and did nothing to relieve my trouble. I suffered with gas, pain in stomach, loss of appetite, and all the attendant symptoms. I read of D. J. Walsh, M. D., and had him treat me and, although it has been over a year since he treated me, I have no trouble from indigestion or stomach trouble."

NEURITIS

MRS. M. R. DUBAC, 1453 CENTRE ST., W. ROXBURY, MASS. SAYS: "I had neuritis so bad that I could not bear the weight of a finger on me. The trouble was mostly in my arms and shoulders. I read of D. J. Walsh, M. D., and his new light treatment. Like a drowning person grasping at a straw I had him treat me and although it has been nearly two years since Dr. Walsh treated me, I have had no trouble from neuritis since."

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land; in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Trial by Jury

What Would the Agitators Put in Its Place?

It is a singular feature of the celebrated case which has just come to an end in Massachusetts that the further he stands from the scene of the murder at South Braintree the more confident appears to be the critic of our institutions that HE has all the facts.

Thus we find a university man, who ought to know better, telling his New York audience that Sacco and Vanzetti died "because they were poor workers, foreigners and radicals."

The FACT is that Sacco and Vanzetti died BECAUSE A JURY OF TWELVE HONEST AND INTELLIGENT MEN, DRAWN FROM THE BODY OF THE COMMUNITY, FOUND THEM GUILTY OF THE MURDER OF FREDERICK A. PARMENTER AND ALESSANDRO BERARDELLI.

There are those, it is plain, who will keep the Sacco-Vanzetti agitation going to suit their own purpose. What they say about it may have a harmful effect upon the minds of the immature, the unthinking, the emotional and the impulsive.

Plain and right-minded citizens will not permit themselves to be disturbed.

THEY will remember that this WAS a murder case, that Parmenter and Berardelli were shot down in cold blood, and that before these defendants could be convicted it was necessary to establish their guilt BEYOND ALL REASONABLE DOUBT.

Those whose chief aim is the destruction of government would be glad to begin by destroying the faith of the people in the jury system.

That system, a cardinal feature of free and popular government, has commanded the confidence and support of the English-speaking people for centuries.

It places the direction of society in the hands of the people. The whole administration of civil and criminal law DEPENDS upon it.

The law provides that all men accused of crime have a RIGHT to trial by jury; by a jury of twelve men who, in order to convict, must give a UNANIMOUS verdict.

The NATURAL prejudice of juries is for the poor against the rich, for the individual against the corporation, for the weak against the strong.

In criminal cases, one of the points of the system which have been held to be vulnerable is that the juror's sense of duty is sometimes overpowered by his feeling of compassion for the prisoner, or of repugnance to the penalties fixed by the law.

The jury which tried Sacco and Vanzetti was not completed before more than SEVEN HUNDRED men had been called and questioned.

Eventually, 12 jurors were found who were acceptable to BOTH sides.

They sat for six weeks, an irksome task and thankless.

They saw and heard more than 150 witnesses.

They performed a great public service.

This newspaper believes they were not only good and intelligent, but HONEST men.

It is not, however, necessary to believe that.

IF THERE WAS ONLY ONE HONEST MAN AMONGST THEM WITH A "REASONABLE DOUBT," SACCO AND VANZETTI COULD NOT HAVE BEEN DEPRIVED OF THE BENEFIT OF THAT DOUBT.

EVERY right of Sacco and Vanzetti was SCRUPULOUSLY regarded. Money without limit was at their disposal for the purposes of defense. Earnest and loyal advocates were diligent in their behalf.

They were tried by their equals, by twelve good and lawful men who felt neither malice nor favor toward them, and these twelve men returned a unanimous verdict of "murder in the first degree."

The agitators, as you may read, are still agitating, not only in New York but in foreign capitals. In the County of Norfolk, however, where this matter arose, there has been NO public expression of dissatisfaction with courts or jury.

Let those who DO find fault with the judge-and-jury method of settling questions of right and wrong suggest, if they can, some better method of disposing of such questions PEACEFULLY.

Our "Kid" Police Force

They've Grown Up

If there is anyone in Boston who is not proud of the way the police have conducted themselves in a grave emergency we do not know who he is or where to look for him; unless amongst those who have been "shoo'd" off the Common or bailed out from the station houses.

Eight years ago, for reasons which need not be gone into here, Boston was faced with the necessity of creating a NEW police force over night.

The work has been going forward ever since.

Many were tried and found wanting. As fast as these were discovered they were stripped of their buttons.

Those who remain, having served their apprenticeship, are fit, alert, capable and brave.

The great majority are veterans of the World War, some of them soldiers of distinction. We have been calling them our "kid" police force. Somehow we were not quite certain how they would stand up in a POLICE emergency.

That doubt has been removed, first by the wonderful showing of "Lindbergh Day" and more recently by the way the boys have handled the distinguished and other visitors who have invaded Boston with instructions for the courts and public officials in general.

If there were not 2,000 of them we would print the NAMES of the police officers.

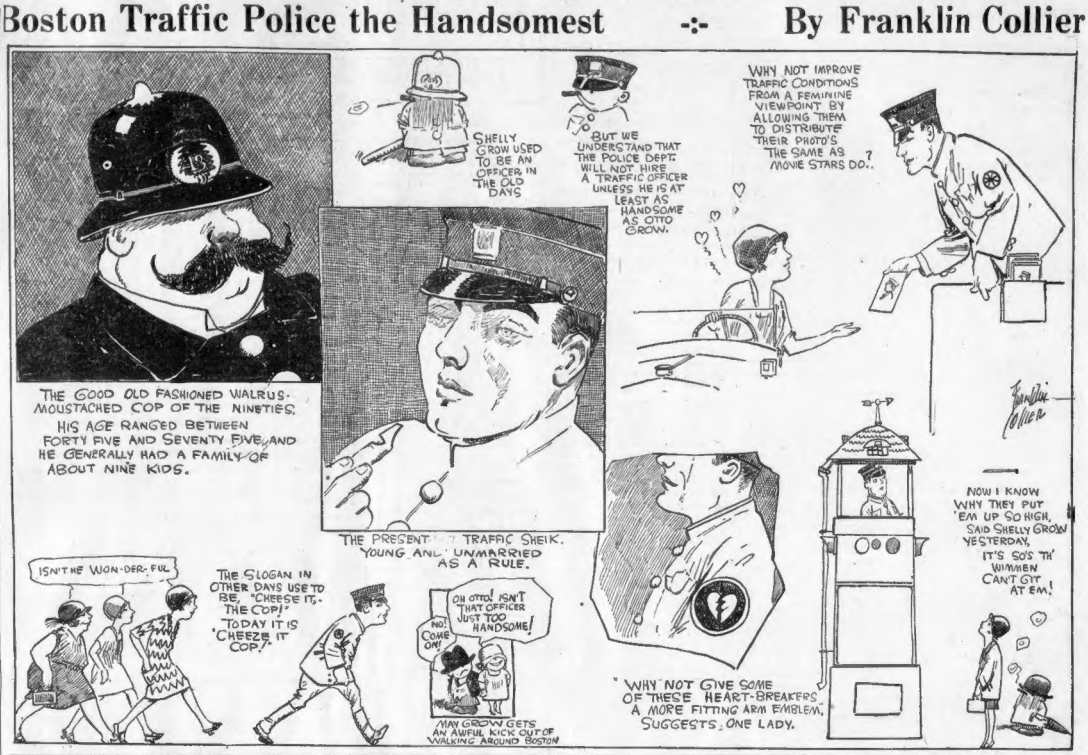
Boston Traffic Police the Handsomest -:- By Franklin Collier



TREATING THE DOG WITH KINDNESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EVEN those who do not acknowledge an excessive love for dogs are awake to a desire at least to have them treated kindly.

The dog has always been man's most faithful friend and any boy who has had a dog and loved him knows how one feels when he sees that dog abused.

It may be true that some dogs are dangerous and should be put out of the way, but at least it should be done humanely and painlessly. A dog has feelings, and no man can claim to be a humane person unless he is kind to animals and does not want to see them suffer.

The people at large will be interested to know what they are doing in Dayton, Ohio. Over there they have a dog pound of a new order.

It is almost entirely due to the interest of Mrs. George Shaw Green, who, during the war, was a representative of the Blue Cross, an English society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. She still loves animals and sees no reason why dogs should not be taken care of decently and with some respect to their feelings rather than being shunted into a slaughter-house or a morgue.

Through her efforts Dayton has a unique animal shelter, the most scientific refuge in the country. It is modeled after a Belgian cottage. The ground about it is landscaped.

"If we were building a pound for wild animals," said Mrs. Green, "in other words a zoo, the people would put that in a park. But because the animals are dogs they are put down in the slums, and that is not reasonable."

The dogs therefore are kept in Dayton in a comfortable house. The money for their care comes from the County Humane Society and is furnished by the county, the city, dog license money, the Community Chest and so on.

The dogs are kept in Dayton three days before they are killed, if they are killed at all. It is the policy of this shelter, however, to find a home for every worthy dog received there and last year over 400 dogs were so placed.

If stray dogs therefore could read this article and if the finders of stray dogs do read it, let them know that there is one place in the United States at least where dogs are treated with some consideration.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

THERE are no barriers too high for man, there are no limits set too far away. If only he be member of that clan which ever turns to fear a visage gay. For, ages back one man down unknown seas went venturing to regions strange and dim, went sailing out to meet the mysteries that lurk in wait beyond Earth's utmost rim. And yesterday another man soared high with shining plans into the realm of air, the first to brave the trackless waste of sky, but one of time's long list who greatly dare. Men change, and times, but still the dauntless heart can by no barrier be turned aside for valor to her sons will still impart a changeless will that conquers wind and tide.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

"IT'S a boy," said FRANK J. SHEEHAN, son of Lieutenant Jeremiah Sheehan of Division No. 11, as he passed around a box of cigars in the vicinity of City Hall, where he is well known.

Congratulations were extended not only to him but to his equally popular wife, who was Miss Viola McDonald.

At the Salvation Army Fresh Air Camp at SHARON is a Japanese sika deer that has the instincts of a homing pigeon. Last Winter the deer escaped from his pen. He spent the Winter about the stables and barns of the farms and estates back of Dedham. Several weeks ago the officers in charge of the camp were surprised to find that during the night the deer had returned to the camp and in some manner had gotten over the high wire fence into his old pen, where he has since remained.

Spending a million dollars of the taxpayers' money on new and reconstructed streets is no small job. Every detail of this gigantic expenditure in one year practically falls on the shoulders of JOSHUA ATWOOD, engineer in charge of the Highway Division of the Public Works Department. He is out this year to break all records pertaining to streets and so far seems to be on the road to victory. During his spare time he also looks after street lighting, street signs and one or two other jobs.

PRESIDENT ANDREW J. PETERS of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, former Mayor and Congressman, hasn't changed a bit since he settled down to his law practice and guiding the destiny of the Chamber. He never seems to forget the "boys" who used to write him up. The same old Peters smile and handshake is waiting for them when they drop in at his office for a little chat about the old days of campaigning.

Old-time Boston yachtsmen, and even the "youngsters" for that matter, are thrilled these days by one of the finest models of the yacht America, winner of the famous cup so eagerly sought by Sir Thomas Lipton, on exhibition in a Federal street store window. The model is in a glass case and its fine lines indicate the staunchness and speed of the famous craft that gave American yachting supremacy of the seas.

Our "Kid" Police Force

That being impossible, we want them to know what the city thinks of them, how highly it regards them.

In all of which, they may rest assured, the public opinion of the town includes Commissioner Wilson, Superintendent Michael H. Crowley—the most level-headed "boss" policeman in the country—Captain Goodwin, Captain Goff and every other official who has been in the thick of things.

The "kid" police force has grown up, into a superb manhood!

Fuller

A Man of Stout Heart and High Courage

No Governor of Massachusetts in all the long history of the Commonwealth has been asked to carry such a burden as the present chief executive has borne with such high courage.

First, it was the "carbarn bandits," and then the noise and tumult over the South Braintree slayers.

Both matters came to the State House just when the Governor was in the midst of serious and pressing responsibilities.

He has been maligned the wide world over. His endurance must have been strained to the breaking point. Those who know him best know him to be one of the most patient, kindly, charitable and tender-hearted of men.

On every possible occasion the people of Massachusetts have shown their respect for and confidence in ALVAN T. FULLER. That respect and confidence have been doubled by recent events. There ought to be some way to let the Governor know about it.
